ARMY OF THE POTOMAC

NEWS TO MONDAY MORNING

An Important Movement in Successful Progress.

Reported Capture of Bottom's Bridge.

Our Army Said to be Safely Across.

The York River Railroad Demolished.

ALL QUIET AT BERMUDA HUNDRED.

Significant Shipment of Siege Guns and Intrenching Tools.

News from Gen. Grant to Monday Morning—A Movement in Successful Progress—Gen. Burbridge's Success Fully Confirmed.

[OFFICIAL.]

WAR DEPARTMENT, WASHINGTON, June 13—12 Midnight.

To Major-Gen. Dix, New-York:

We have dispatches from the Army of the Potomac as late as 8 o'clock this morning. The movement was at that hour in successful progress.

No reports to-day from Gen. SHERMAN.

The following dispatch from Gen. BURBRIDGE, commanding in Kentucky, has just reached here:

"I attacked MORGAN at Cynthiana at daylight yesterday morning, and after an hour's hard fighting completely routed him, killing three hundred, wounding nearly as many, and capturing nearly four hundred, besides recapturing nearly one hundred of Gen. HOBSON's command and over one thousand horses. Our loss in killed and wounded was about one hundred and fifty. MORGAN's scattered forces are flying in all directions, have thrown away arms, are out of ammunition, and are wholly demoralized.

Dispatches from Gen. BUTLER at 9 o'clock this evening, indicate no change in the command.

No further intelligence has been received from Gen. HUNTER.

EDWIN M. STANTON,
Secretary of War.

The Position on Sunday—All Quiet—Unauthorized Truces—Casualties.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC, June 11—P. M.

The past few days have been quite uneventful to the Army of the Potomac. Our lines are scarcely nearer the enemy than was the position at the close of the battle on Friday, more than a week ago. The troops on both sides, each behind their intrenchments, have kept up a desultory but useless fire, just sufficient to make it apparent that the respective works were not vacant. Both armies in fact have been enjoying the repose which was needed after the hard fighting and rapid marching of three weeks' campaigning from the banks of the Rapidan. To-day the silence is even more marked than before. The sound of a musket has scarcely been heard along the entire front. A few bursts of artillery and the explosion of a shell or two high over the trees about the centre of the line, have been the only reminders this afternoon of the enemy's presence. From present indications, it is not likely that there will be fighting for several days to come; but the storm is brewing, and may burst in quarters least expected by the enemy. It is not proper at this time to say precisely how Gen. GRANT will attempt to discomfit the enemy.

Yesterday an order was issued by Gen. MEADE, forbidding unauthorized communications with the enemy. The men on both sides have been holding intercourse with each other for interchange of newspapers and the barter of coffee and tobacco. In this way a great deal of mischief was likely to result, as information of vital importance is always apt to leak out. The opposing lines of rifle-pits, it must be borne in mind, are not a hundred yards apart—in some parts of the line much closer. For any portion of the body to be exposed, the penalty is certain wounding, if not death. But the men are utterly weary of loading and firing. They have kept up this heavy skirmishing for days, and no visible advantage has been gained by either side. The fire gradually slackens. Officers become careless about urging the men to their work. A truth and magnetic spell influences with equal power our own men and their martial enemies. It is very curious. The combatants are entirely hidden from each other's sights. The last shot is fired, and the lull in the battle storm is perfect. Adventurous spirits on both sides cautiously raise their heads above the earth works. "How are you, Johnny?"—"How are you, Yank?" is the question usually handled. "Won't you shoot?" says one. "No," says the other. "Well, we won't." Silence is all, and immediately the parapets are swarmed with the men who have been concealed and protected behind them. Out jump the fellows from the rifle-pits, and putting down their guns stretch their cramped forms upon the grass. Sharpshooters cautiously slide down from their perches in the trees and lull about in utter abandon. Trade is quickly opened, and all sorts of commodities are exchanged. The men have been pleasure in their singular armistice, bantering each other sharply, and never overstepping the half-way line which separates their respective fortifications. Suddenly the cry is raised—"Run back, Johnny!" or "Run back, Yanks," just as it happens to be, "we're going to shoot," and the hostilities begin again. It is always understood, however, that the first shot shall be aimed high, and the valiant dawdler gets back to shelter safely. While this fraternal scene is being enacted on one limited part of the line, the battle rages hotly at other portions of the extended front, which measures by miles. Was ever such strange warfare known before. It is easy enough to see, however, that these anomalous episodes may be checked. The rebels availed themselves at such a truce the other day to strengthen a battery which had been reduced to silence, and had kept still for nearly a week. The work, consequently, has had to be done over again. I have seen a great many prisoners lately. Their appearance entirely refutes the very current story that the rebel army is in a destitute and starving condition. It is simply idle to talk about starving the enemy into submission. The rebel soldiers, as a general thing, are stout, strong, and the very picture of health. It is insulting to our own brave men that the statements so industriously circulated respecting the feebleness and lack of power of endurance of the Southern soldiers should be believed. The rations of the rebel troops may not be in as great variety as those furnished to our men, but they have proved to be fully as nutritious. This fact cannot be gainsayed. H. J. W.

Reported Capture of Bottom's Bridge—A Bravado Charge—Our Army Said to be All Across the Chickahominy.

PHILADELPHIA, Monday, June 13.

The Bulletin publishes the following:

"The Washington Republican says an intelligent officer of cavalry arrived this morning from the front. He left a point ten miles from the front on Sunday forenoon, and reports that firing was distinctly heard during Saturday night in the direction of Bottom's Bridge, which crosses the Chickahominy about twelve miles east from Richmond, and seven miles northeast of the mouth of Four Mile Creek, on James River. When he left, he said the report had just reached the place that Gen. KAUTZ, after a desperate fight, succeeded in dislodging the enemy, and carrying the bridge at the point of the bayonet; that he held it, and the whole army successfully crossed at that point."

HEADQUARTERS, ARMY OF THE POTOMAC, Saturday, June 11.

Both armies occupy their old positions. About the right and centre there has been considerable skirmishing and cannonading. No damage has been effected by either party. The men are well protected behind high and strong breastworks. Their soldiers and ours converse in the most amicable manner; but opinions being too freely exchanged, as well as sugar and tobacco, such familiarities have been stopped by special order.

The rebels have a large gun mounted on a railroad truck. It throws a six-inch shell, which is the subject of much mirth among our men.

Gen. MEADE rode through the portion of his lines yesterday afternoon. His visit was entirely unexpected and unostentatious.

The railroad has been torn up by our troops. The rails from Dispatch Station to White House have been carefully carried away.

Arrival of Wounded at Washington.

FROM FORTRESS MONROE.

Returning Soldiers—Prisoners.

FORTRESS MONROE, Saturday, June 11.

Dr. LIGHTFOOT, surgeon of the rebel army, arrived here this morning from Louisville, Ky., and awaits the flag-of-truce boat for exchange.

About 150 officers and men of the Second New-Hampshire Regiment arrived here yesterday, from the White House, en route for home—their term of enlistment having expired. This is one of the first three years' regiments. Only three of the original officers remain, viz.: Col. BAILEY, Lieut.-Col. CARR and Capt. PATTERSON.

Col. CRAWFORD, of the Twenty-third Massachusetts Regiment, has been suffering for some weeks in a critical condition at Chesapeake Hospital, from a gunshot wound in the left lung. On Thursday last the ball was extracted, and the Colonel is now doing well.

The propeller Moonlight arrived to-day from Newbern, N. C., but brings no news.

4 P. M.—The steamer John A. Warner arrived from Bermuda Hundreds with 46 rebel prisoners, captured on Thursday last inside the rebel works around Petersburgh.

DEATHS IN THE HAMPTON HOSPITAL.

Aaron Sheesley, 19 Wis—died June 7. E McKelver, 42d N C—died June 7—rebel. Geo White, 76 Penn—died June 7. Henry D Gordon, artillery—died June 8. Neil McCloud, 42d N C—died June 9—rebel.

DEATHS IN CHESAPEAKE HOSPITAL.

Abraham H Thayer, 40th Massachusetts—died June 8.

FORTRESS MONROE, Sunday, June 12—3:30 P. M.

The steamer Thomas Powell has just arrived from Bermuda Hundred and reports all quiet in Gen. BUTLER's department.

There is no news from Gen. GRANT. His supplies still go to him via York River and the White House.

The Christian Commission with the Army of the Potomac.

PHILADELPHIA, Monday, June 13.

The general field agent of the Christian Commission gives the following facts in relation to its operations in the Army of the Potomac since his arrival at the White House.

A schooner and tugboat were early at the wharf laden with stores. Additional supplies have been arriving by the Government boats daily. The commission has twelve tents at the White House. When the first wounded arrived, over fifty delegates were on the ground to receive them. The number has since been increased to one hundred.

The corps is divided into two classes, viz.: Special Relief and Hospital Delegates.

The first attend to convoy for soldiers outside of the regular Hospital and those on the way from the front. The second work in the regularly organized Hospitals.

At the front the commission has a wagon with each corps and an agent, and four to eight delegates with each wagon; five wagons are kept as a reserve.

Thousands of soldiers have been fed while hundreds daily have had their wounds dressed, and have been otherwise relieved by the delegates of the Christian Commission.

Princeton Graduates at the South.

A correspondent of the Newark Advertiser gives the following information regarding the whereabouts of some of the Southern graduates of Princeton College:

THE CLASS OF 1856.

Of the Class of 1856, I have lately heard the following:

W. B. Falconer died a Lieutenant of the Fourteenth Mississippi, at Corinth, in the Fall of 1861.

T. S. Falconer died at home in November, 1862—not in service.

George Mercer, of Georgia, is Assistant Adjutant-General on Gen. Mercer's staff.

Samuel Oliver, of Alabama, is a Captain on Gen. Gardner's staff.

Joseph Hodgson, Jr., of Virginia, was Captain in the First Alabama Cavalry, now field officer in Clanton's Alabama Brigade.

Ed. Buck, of Mississippi, is Sergeant of a Mississippi regiment.

Sidney Abbey is Assistant Surgeon in the First Mississippi Artillery.

Thos. Tabb, of Virginia, is Regimental Quartermaster of the Third Virginia.

THE CLASS OF 1855.

Of the Class of 1855, Robertson and Mipniece are dead.

Wm. Inglis was Adjutant of the Eighth South Carolina Infantry—died at Richmond.

J. S. Maloy was a private in the Eighth South Carolina Infantry.

Cooper is Lieutenant in the Third Alabama Cavalry. Wheeler's Brigade, was lately captured and then exchanged; he furnishes the information of this letter.

Yoe, Mardis was late Adjutant of the Seventh Alabama, now wounded.

Martin, of Arkansas, is Lieutenant in Arkansas Infantry, in the Army of Tennessee.

Of the other Classes, Rose, of Tennessee, of Class of 1858, was a Captain in the Fifteenth Tennessee Infantry, and was lately a prisoner at Johnson's Island.

Thomas Goldthwaite was on Gen. Forney's Staff.

George Abbey is a Captain in the First Mississippi Artillery.

No Break in the Canal.

ALBANY, Monday, June 13.

The rumors of a canal break at Cohoes, on Saturday night (which would take ten days to repair, are untrue. A lock-gate got out of order, but was replaced within twelve hours.

HORRIBLE DOMESTIC TRAGEDY.

An Insane Mother Murders Her Two Children and then Herself.

POUGHKEEPSIE, Monday, June 13.

A Mrs. MARY MILLER, of New-York, who has been residing for several weeks past at Fishkill Landing, committed a bloody deed at an early hour this morning, by cutting the throats of her two children, (girls, aged respectively seven and two years,) and then cutting her own. The act was committed at the house of Mr. JOHN CARRIE. Her husband, Mr. ALEXANDER MILLER, is engaged in an oil-house in New-York City. Mrs. MILLER has been subject to slight spells of insanity since last Fall, and had been sent by her husband to Fishkill Landing for quiet and repose, with the hope that the effect would be beneficial both mental and bodily. She is supposed to have been suffering from one of those attacks when the above bloody deed was committed. Her husband was in the habit of visiting her every Sunday. Yesterday he remarked to a friend that his wife was improving considerably, and hoped that she would soon be fully restored. They were much respected by a large circle of friends, and had always lived happily together. At 10:40 A. M., the hour at which our informant left the scene, Mrs. MILLER still survived, but was near her last.

The Berkshire Disaster.

POUGHKEEPSIE, Monday, June 13.

Three more bodies were recovered at the wreck of the Berkshire to-day. One was that of FIRMIN, the boat waiter. Another is but the trunk of a man, with both legs and arms burned off, and is supposed to be the body of one of the deck hands named COOK, as it was found near the sleeping quarters of the deck hands. The third is the body of a female whose name is unknown. One of the bodies found on Sunday is supposed to be that of Mrs. NILES.

The final investigation commenced at Rhinebeck to-day. Up to this time the number of bodies found amounts to fifteen.

A man named WILSON, said to belong to Pittsfield, Penn., was to-night lodged in jail, charged with the murder of BENJAMIN, at the railroad bridge in Main-street, in this city, on the night of the 11th inst.

At the Coroner's inquest at Rhinebeck this afternoon, in relation to the Berkshire disaster, the Keeper of the lamp-room testified that he left that room at 7:30 P. M., and after that time there was no light in it and the door was locked. The testimony of the cook and a fireman, who were saved, is yet to be heard; they both had access to the lamp-room. Capt. FOWLER testified that when he first saw the fire it was confined to the lamp-room and smoke and flames were issuing through the crevices of the door and about the bulkhead.

SOUTHERN NEWS.

FROM ATLANTA.

An Atlanta Intelligencer, of May 29, has come through the lines. It contains the following paragraph of interest:

THE SITUATION.

That the Yankees should have the temerity to insist on assaults on our lines, after the terrible repulses they have sustained, is surprising. They surely must be infatuated with the supposed idea of their overwhelming strength and numbers, or are incited to it under the influence of mean whisky. They attempted at one time during the day to enter a wedge between Gen. HOOD's corps and the main body of our forces, hoping to isolate that position; and overwhelm them by a coup de main. They were repulsed terribly by the cool and steady fire of our veterans, who did not leave their commanding and impregnable position. The army at night remained nearly in the same position it occupied in the morning, but with the advantages retained of any positions that had been gained.

We stated on yesterday that the character of the firing indicated the enemy was only feeling our lines, and by our press dispatches in another column, it will be seen that this was the main feature.

On Friday, the firing commenced very heavy early in the morning, and continued extensively and furiously all day; along toward evening the sounds receded, seeming to indicate a retiring of the enemy's lines.

At a late hour last night the wounded were coming in on the train in large numbers, thus indicating that heavy fighting had occurred during the day, but we could not learn any satisfactory particulars.

ADDRESS TO THE LADIES.

The Intelligencer makes a feeling address to the ladies, in which it says:

Look at the desolated fields, ruined homes and insulted women of those sections where the enemy has passed, and learn what your fate will be if we are defeated. Can you, in this hour of peril, hesitate to come forward and render what assistance you can to your brave defenders? Upon the shoulders of a devoted few rests the heavy responsibility of attending to their wants, and we are calling the undertaking more than we can accomplish alone. Ladies, come forward and help us. The ordinary avocations of life must be for a time suspended. Our brave soldiers are straining every nerve to win their own and our independence, and so must we lend all our energies to the task of attending those who require it. A few of us have determined to remain in the city as long as there is a Confederate soldier to care for; and we appeal to you all to lay aside your fears, forget your panic, dismiss all thoughts of running, and join us in this noble work; and when our liberty is established, you then can claim your share of its rewards.

WAR MATERIAL.

The following is a memorandum of war material supplied to our armies from the Government works at Augusta, under the command of Col. RAINS, within the past two months:

One million four hundred thousand small arm cartridges.

Six thousand rounds fixed ammunition, (shot and shell attached to cartridges for field batteries.)

Thirty thousand Girardey's percussion fuses for rifle shell.

Two thousand five hundred Col. RAINS' percussion hand grenades.

One thousand five hundred rifle shells for field artillery.

Fifty-four tons eight and ten inch shot and shell for columbiads.

One hundred tons of gunpowder.

Three complete batteries of brass 12-pounder Napoleon guns, with carriages, limbers, caissons, harness, equipments, ammunition, traveling-forges, &c.

One battery of 3-inch rifle and banded iron guns and 12-pound bronze howitzers.

One battery of four 12-pound howitzers. The above two batteries being complete at all points, with carriages, limbers, caissons, harness, ammunition, equipments, &c.

SOUTHERN AND NORTHERN MASTERS COMPARED.

A correspondent of the Meridian Clarion, writing to the Intelligencer from Canton, says:

"A lady of this town has received a letter from one of her slaves, who went off to freedom and happiness along with SHERMAN. The letter begins with a humble 'Dear Mistis,' and goes on with the most obsequious style to relate miseries he and his fellow 'freemen' were enduring, and to lament the folly of his evil conduct. He says they have only exchanged good for unmerciful masters, who compel them to labor for five dollars a month when he can get one dollar per pound! This American citizen of African descent! represents himself and all others of his color in Vicksburgh as being exceedingly anxious to return to bondage, and implores his mistress to attempt their deliverance. He says they will escape if possible."

HOWELL COBB DONATES ONE THOUSAND DOLLARS.

Col. R. A. Crawford, President Confederate Aid Association, Atlanta, Ga.:

DEAR SIR: In response to the appeal made by your association, in behalf of those who have been driven from their homes in the northern part of the State, in consequence of the late advance of the enemy, as well as for our sick and wounded soldiers, I inclose you a check for $1,000.

Very respectfully, yours, &c.,
HOWELL COBB.

KILLED BY A FALLING DUMMY.—ROBERT BRADLEY, aged 23 years, died yesterday, at the New-York Hospital, from the effect of injuries received on the 27th ult., by falling with a dummy, in the store of Messrs. HOWARD, SAMMIS & Co., No. 107 Chambers-street. At the time deceased received his injuries himself and another man were descending on the dummy from one of the upper floors. A chain suddenly broke, and the dummy and deceased went to the bottom. The other man saved himself by clinging to the second floor. Coroner WILSEY was notified, and will hold an inquest on the body to-day. BRADLEY was a native of Connecticut, and had been in the employ of the firm several years.

Financial and Commercial Intelligence.

The steamship Saxonia, from Southampton on June 1, arrived here last evening.

The Bavaria arrived May 28.

The steamship Belgian, from Liverpool on the 2d, via Londonderry on the 3d inst., passed Cape Race at 10 o'clock Sunday morning, en route to Quebec. She was boarded by the newsboat of the Associated Press, and a summary of her news obtained.

The steamship North American, from Quebec, arrived off Cape Clear at 11 o'clock on the morning of the 2d inst.

The United States corvette St. Louis arrived at Tangier Bay on the 21st of May.

The Belgian has 22 cabin and 401 steerage passengers.

The steamship St. Andrew, from Quebec, arrived in the Clyde on the 2d inst.

GREAT BRITAIN.

In the House of Commons, Monday, May 30, in reply to Mr. HENDERSON, the Attorney-General recounted the circumstances in connection with the purchase by the Government of the Mersey steam-rams. The Government before the seizure offered to purchase the rams; the offer was refused and the ships consequently seized. Mr. BRAYEY, the alleged owner, offered to sell them at a price which was considered too large, and his offer was declined. Later, he asked the Government what price they would give and the terms of purchase were agreed on, the alleged owners still maintaining that there had been no violation of the law on their part. The purchase was not regarded as the condonation of an offence committed by the defendants. The Government thought the law as it stood sufficient to check malpractices, and he did not think this transaction would operate as a premium to shipbuilders to speculate in building vessels-of-war for belligerents. The price given for the ships was £195,000, and a further sum of £35,000 for their completion. The price first asked was £300,000.

Mr. WARNER moved that the existing duties on spirits should be reduced. The Chancellor opposed the motion, which was subsequently withdrawn.

On a motion that the House go into committee on the bill to abolish the religious list at the Oxford University, an amendment was proposed by the Conservatives rejecting the bill, but the Liberals gained the victory by a majority of ten in a full House of 462.

In the House of Lords, Monday, May 30, Lord LYVEDEN in calling attention to the state of the native question in New Zealand, said: The real cause of the late war, was bad government of the natives. We had destroyed their native institutions, and given them nothing in exchange. He thought we ought to see the colony through the war in spite of the expense. He wished to know what was to be done with the bill for suppressing the rebellion, and in reference to the guarantee required by the colony for the loan of three millions which they sought to raise.

Earl GRANVILLE said every effort would be used to suppress the rebellion. The act relating thereto had been sanctioned. The question of the loan was still under consideration. Lord LYVEDEN, Earl CLARENDON, and Earl GREY all denounced the measures taken by the Colonial Legislature in reference to the natives.

A Mr. ROWETT, one of the Directors of the International Telegraph Company, has been giving explanations at Liverpool of the design of that company to construct a telegraph to America, starting from Brest, via the Azores and the French islands of Newfoundland, &c. A concession had been obtained from the French Government in favor of the enterprise. A capital of half a million sterling is required.

The London Times in referring to the Parliamentary debate on China, says that it was proved by Mr. COBDEN, that at the present moment the position of England toward China is the modest attitude of non-intervention.

Admiral OSMOND has returned with his squadron. The instructions to British naval officers are to confine themselves strictly to the defence of treaty ports in China and the small circuit around them, and the order is now on its way. If not already arrived, which will detach Major GORDON from the service of the Imperial Government.

THE DANO-GERMAN QUESTION.

The conference met on the 2d instant, but nothing definite was arrived at.

A proposal was made and accepted for the prolongation of the armistice fifteen days longer.

The conference will meet again on the 6th of June.

Fears gain ground that hostilities will recommence between the Danes and Germans.

The London Morning Post points out that the prolongation of the armistice is a matter of immediate importance, and it question Denmark by stating that her contracted frontiers must henceforth be inviolate, and that she should regard the riddance of a disaffected people as a benefit rather than a loss.

It is represented that public feeling energetically demands the resumption of hostilities the ensuing season, it being especially favorable to the Danes, while delay will neutralize the Danish naval strength.

The Dagbladet, of Copenhagen, says: Should the London Treaty be annulled and the German inhabitants of a monarchy themselves decide on their destiny, the settlement of the succession will become void. The Danish inhabitants will then demand equal rights in choosing for themselves a monarchical or republican government. They will also decide whether to join Germany or Sweden.

The leading Danish papers violently denounced England's proposition at the conference for a division of Schleswig, and call for earnest resistance.

The Daily News says:

"A letter from Vienna says reinforcements are being prepared for the Austrian squadron in the German Ocean. The naval department is getting the screw frigates Donau, 44 guns, the Adria, 44, and the Dandolo, 28, and an iron-clad frigate fitted for one. The Austrians will then have the preponderance over the Danes."

THE PRUSSIAN CONTRABANDISTS IN JUTLAND.

A telegram from Copenhagen, of May 27, says: Advices received here from Jutland state that the Prussians continue to arrest Danish officials, and have subjected the local press to censorship. It is stated officially denied that the contributions and confiscations ordered prior to May 12, which were to be canceled in consequence of the armistice, have been withdrawn by the Prussians. Intelligence from Aalberg announces that the enemy is constructing intrenchments at that place.

The Paris Monitor du Soir says:

"In the interest of humanity, and to further the negotiations now taking place, the Plenipotentiaries of the belligerents have been invited by the neutral Powers to solicit without delay instructions from their respective Governments for a prolongation of the suspension of hostilities, in order to be able to discuss that question on Thursday next."

FRANCE.

Political news unimportant.

The Bourse was firm on the 2d inst., at 86c., 86c. for the Rentes.

A French block-house had been captured at Senegal, and fifteen hundred French soldiers massacred by the blacks.

On Monday, May 30th, Louis PHILIPPE ALBERT D'ORLEANS, Comte de Paris, the eldest hope of the Orleans family, was married in his first cousin, the Princess ISABELLA, of Spain, in the presence of a most illustrious company, including not only English nobility and Foreign Ambassadors, but many of the old historic names of France, who still adhere in loyalty and hope to the fallen fortunes of the Orleans dynasty. The marriage was celebrated in the Roman Catholic chapel at Kingston, where the Duc de Chartres was married last year.

The Paris Siecle says it has received a private letter respecting the treatment to which Polish women are subjected by the Russians, which contains such terrible details that it does not dare to publish them. "They are torn from their families and transported to Siberia," says the Siecle; "they are given like the slaves of old, to pitiless masters, who force them to contract fresh unions; their marriage ties are broken. The latter we have does not confine itself to vague allegations; it cites persons and names. If Russia continues her system of transporting the Polish women, let them remember that Roman empire, which, after having also covered the world with its violences, was in turn overthrown amid violence and barbarism."

The Times Paris correspondent says:

The month of May, which is now nearly at an end, has not had a favorable influence on the growing crops, particularly wheat. Complaints are heard in various quarters about the injury occasioned by the drought.

ITALY.

A telegram from Turin, of May 30, says:

Signor MINGHETTI, Finance Minister, announced in the Chamber of Deputies to-day, that the two hundred millions of the last loan have been issued upon conditions which he hoped would be found advantageous.

RUSSIA.

A telegram from St. Petersburgh, of May 27, says: It is asserted that Prince GORTSCHAKOFF, the Russian Foreign Minister, with his private Secretary, will accompany the Czar to Germany on the 5th of June.

SPAIN.

In the Madrid Senate on May 28th, the Finance Minister read the bill granting Messrs. WURTZBURG, SALAMANCA and OSMA the concession for the establishment of a Credit Foncier Company, with the stipulation of taking an amount of 200,000,000 reals in Treasury bonds. The report of the committee on the Passive Debt will be brought forward this session.

THE DANUBIAN PRINCIPALITIES.

A telegram from Bucharest of May 28 says: "The result of the general plebiscite is 713,326 votes for and 57 against the new constitution proposed by Prince COUZA. There were 706,905 persons entitled to vote, out of which number 52,323 were either absent, ill or abstained from voting."

GEN. SHERMAN'S ARMY.

General Sherman's Position—The Memphis-Grenada-Jackson-Atlanta Appeal.

Correspondence of the Chicago Tribune.

NASHVILLE, Wednesday, June 8, 1864.

SHERMAN'S POSITION.

Gen. SHERMAN has finally given us a brief telegram relating to the situation at the front, which has doubtless reached you long ere this; but it will be seen that it does not materially vary from the information conveyed to you in my letter of last week. He holds the railroad safely in the vicinity of Marietta, and I suppose will not advance beyond that save by some days. There are certain movements in progress, which are designed to effect Johnston's army, and these will consume considerable time. Meanwhile reinforcements are pushing through here to join our army at the front; and Gen. SHERMAN will almost certainly await these, as he is determined to crush the rebel forces in Georgia; nothing short of a decisive victory will satisfy him. He has seen the folly of fighting for territory—of giving battle when the army, after the campaign, will stand relatively as before the firing of the first shot.

He is aware that the capture, or even rout of the rebel army near Atlanta, will lead to the substitution of another strategy. I know he is fully convinced that Jonnston will play beetle before retreating much further, as a continued retrograde movement will certainly begin their demoralization. He, therefore, is confident that the rebels will make a stand, and he will do all in his power to make the spot the "last ditch."

There are regiments passing through here to the front, almost daily; whenever they come, it is unnecessary, you would be informed of it. Among them I have observed, within the last two days, are several from Illinois, and without exception, I find the boys confident and in the best of spirits, feeling certain that they are about to administer the death blow to the rebellion.

The bridge across the river at Kingston, Ga., is now nearly completed, and cars will soon be running to the front. A telegraphic communication is already open to SHERMAN'S headquarters. Large shipments of supplies are constantly being sent from this point to Kingston, by both the Decatur and Chattanooga Railroads.

I saw a gentleman a few days since direct from Atlanta, and who informed me that Joan Dare was there, early and disappointed. He is severe on everybody—on members in general. He states that he would never have joined the rebels had not parties having the reputation of being Union men called on him, and urged him to go into the current, that he might control it. Joe Brown says he yielded to these arguments and solicitations; but no sooner had he arrived himself with the rebels, than he began to denounce our good friend Rose, he says, he is old, infirm and despised, and must go down to an unnoticed grave, far from all his home and friends. "Come," said my informant, "scarcely suffered more than does this once honored statesman."

But Mr. BELL is not alone; there are a host of others well known here, but who have not a national reputation, in a similar condition. They would give all they possess in the world to be as they were four years since; but the past is beyond recalling. The way of the transgressor is indeed hard.

The Situation up to June 3.

Correspondence of the Cincinnati Commercial.

LITTLE PUMPKIN-VINE CREEK, Ga., June 3.

Eight days has this army now been in battle lines in front of the enemy, while skirmishing has been incessant, and on two or three occasions we fingered the rebels, and on as many more we have been fingered in turn by them, and these mutual handlings has produced on both sides a good degree of caution and reserve. The apparent reality Johnston's ward of all these tactics days and nights are few and small. What is it? Does Gen. SHERMAN have for the purpose of the campaign, to assume and employ the rebel army in a long and tedious and designing manner, preparing a decisive action till the time comes when he can annihilate the enemy, and thus prevent the remnants of a partial defeat from reinforcing the rebel center in the least; while he awaits, meantime, favorable news from Gen. GRANT, purposing then to crush Gen. Johnston before Lee's broken divisions can reinforce the West—or is he baited to his onward march to Atlanta? The latter is partly to be supposed, and the former certainly is plausible. It is assuredly a worthy object of strategy that a great and stunning defeat should be inflicted on both the main rebel armies simultaneously, as nearly as possible, for we know their interior lines of concentration. We know that Lee is the defeat of our army alone, the remainder might, by a supply transfer, be able to reinforce in time to do us much harm. But this is Gen. SHERMAN.

On the morning of the 31st of May, which was the first after the rebels had allowed themselves to become so excited with their apparent gloss of a flank movement on our part toward their right, not satisfied with their labored attack of the night before, felt carefully of our lines all along, beginning at the left and extending throughout. This was doubtless with the purpose of ascertaining if we were in their front yet, and how strong. Early in the morning the rattling of musketry grew sharp on the extreme left, and steadily it rolled along past the centre, and finally was lost in the distance far away to the right. As this tide-wave of rebel attack passed by each regiment or brigade, and was deadest back whence it came, it was followed almost invariably by a hearty volley of cheers from our brave boys, who thus showed the inquisitive rebs, in more ways than one, that they were still there. In the Twentieth Corps, Col. STANLEY's brigade, the Fifteenth Ohio, Lieut.-Col. NEWMY in command, while deploying as skirmishers, were assailed by a large body of rebels, which they estimate at two brigades, and which they gallantly repulsed. The regiment had the advantage of slight works, built of old logs and stones, hastily, behind which they were scattered along sufficiently to present a front for the superior numbers of the enemy. The rebels, as is their wont, rushed impetuously up to the very muzzles of the guns, and one of them threw down his piece, and leaped over as a voluntary prisoner. Despite their audacity and superiority in numbers, they were beaten back and severely punished. They are thought have been thirty or forty killed. Ten bodies were carried within the lines, and others were left. The regiment lost, killed and wounded, twenty-four out of about 400 men. In HOBMAN's corps also the Seventeenth Kentucky, under Major CLARKEY, and five companies engaged with the enemy, who charged upon them twice in heavy force, and were successfully kept at bay, with a loss to us of only five men.

Having satisfied themselves that our men were yet in their places, and had their faces still set steadfastly toward Atlanta, they were content to lie quiet the remainder of the day.

On the 1st of June preparations were again made for massing the army on the left, and at the same time advancing up in front, which, it will be remembered, was to have been done a day or two before, and was not done. Accordingly, (the skirmishing contrabend,) the cavalry force on the left wing of the army entered Allatoona on the morning of the 2d of June, supported by infantry at the proper distance in the rear. This places the left of our army a little in advance of the remainder, i. e., in advance of a northeast and southwest line, and to-day we hear the heavy guns of that part of the army pounding vigorously away, apparently almost in rear of the rebels. The latter, however, still consider themselves safe from a flank, it would seem, since they still return our skirmish fring along the line. Still this may be nothing but a shell covering an empty trap and leading to disaster and gain time. The trouble is, this in these cutting woods and hills, in which we are plunged, no one can do little else than speculate, and it is a source of profound wonder that any man gets hit at all. The amount of ammunition expended hereabouts is great, with small results, and the number of men who are jarred and stunned by falling limbs is quite large. The rebels seem to understand this, and are accordingly very chary of their firing, till our men are so unfortunate as to get into open ground.

This much is certain that HASCALL's corps, which fought McPHERSON on the right, has been transferred to the left, thus following up our general movement. Also, that the Georgia militia have been called out to the number of 10,000, to relieve regulars.

Gen. HOWARD this morning made a feint along the greater part of his line, with the object of drawing the enemy out. They gave no response. They are confident of their position, evidently, and bide their time. Q. F. F.

Guerrillas on the Kennebec River—The Steamer Wren Fired Into.

From the Louisville Democrat, June 10.

The steamer WREN, Capt. SANDERS, has just returned to the city wharf from Kentucky River, having been compelled to abandon her trip on account of the guerrillas along the line of that stream. As the WREN was going up she was fired into by a party of guerrillas near Lockport, Henry County. About twenty musket shots were fired at the boat, most of which struck her. A deck-hand on the boat, whose name we did not learn, was wounded. No other person on the boat was hurt. Our informant was unable to state the number of the party that fired into the boat, or the name of their commander, but they are supposed to be a part of the forces of MORGAN.

Indian Annuities to be Paid in Greenbacks.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
OFFICE OF INDIAN AFFAIRS, Feb. 13, 1864.

SIR: I have to acknowledge the receipt by reference from the Secretary of the Interior, of your letter of the 1st inst., including a letter from NIXON HIS CHIEF GIU-MS, an Indian chief of East Saginaw, of the 20th of January last, stating that the Indians were paid in greenbacks, instead of coin, as stipulated in the treaty, and asking if they can be paid the amount of premium on that amount of coin.

In reply, I have to state that while it is true that the treaty provides that the annuities shall be paid in coin, it is equally true that at the time of making the treaty, coin was all the kind of funds the Government had in making payments; but now that the Government has issued Treasury notes, with which it pays the salaries of the President and all the officers of the civil Government, as well as the army and navy, and inasmuch as these notes are received at par value for all goods and commodities, this office considers that it is no hardship that the Indians should be paid in currency when they understand the value of the same, and they ought to be willing to pass the slight sacrifice occasioned upon paying them in currency instead of coin, as it is believed that their interest in the support of the Government and the preservation is identical with that of the whites; and they ought to receive the same kind of funds that is paid to all others, as before stated, without complaining.

I will further state that there is no appropriation for which the premium asked for can be paid. The letter is returned herewith, as requested.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,
W. P. DOLE, Commissioner.

Hon. J. F. DARGE, House of Representatives.

No More Transfers from the Military to the Naval Service.

The following important order was issued yesterday:

OFFICE OF THE A. A. PROVOST-MARSHAL-GENERAL AND SUPERINTENDENT VOLUNTEER RECRUITING SERVICE, SOUTHERN DIVISION OF NEW-YORK,
NEW-YORK, June 13, 1864.

CIRCULAR, No. 56: The resolution relative to the transfer of persons in the Military Service to the Naval Service," approved Feb. 24, 1864, having been repealed by Congress, the A. A. Provost-Marshal-General informs the Provost-Marshals, of this Division, that substitutes for drafted men cannot enlist in the Navy, nor will persons joining the Naval or Marine Service be credited to any District, except those whose names are on the Enrolment list and are liable to draft in such Districts.

Negro Troops in the West.

LETTER FROM ADJUTANT-GEN. THOMAS TO SENATOR WILSON.

WAR DEPARTMENT, ADJT.-GEN.'S OFFICE,
WASHINGTON, May 30.

HON. H. WILSON—Dear Sir: On several occasions when on the Mississippi River, I contemplated writing to you respecting the colored troops, and to suggest that as they have been fully tested as soldiers their pay should be raised to that of white troops, and I desire now to give my testimony in their behalf. You are aware that I have been engaged in the organization of freedmen for over a year, and have necessarily been thrown in constant contact with them.

The negro in the state of Slavery is brought up by the master from early childhood to strict obedience, and to obey implicitly the dictates of the white man, and they are thus led to believe that they are an inferior race. Now, when organized into troops, they carry this habit of obedience with them, and their officers being entirely white men, the negro promptly obeys his orders. A regiment is thus rapidly brought into a state of discipline. They are a religious people, another high quality for making good soldiers. They are musical people, and thus readily learn to march, and accurately perform their manœuvres. They take pride in being elevated as soldiers, and keep themselves, as well as their camp-grounds, neat and clean. This I know from personal inspection, and from the reports of my special inspectors, two of my staff officers being constantly on inspection duty.

They have proved a most important addition to our forces, enabling the Generals in active operations to take a large force of white troops into the field; and now brigades of blacks are placed with the whites. The forts erected at the important points on the river are nearly all garrisoned by blacks—artillery regiments raised for the purpose, say at Paducah and Columbus, Kentucky, Memphis, Tennessee, Vicksburgh and Natchez, Mississippi, and most of the works around New-Orleans. Experience proves that they manage heavy guns very well. Their fighting qualities have also been fully tested a number of times, and I am yet to hear of the first case where they did not fully stand up to their work. I passed over the ground where the First Louisiana made the gallant charge at Port Hudson, by far the stronger post of the rebel works. The account is that no regiment of the same age in Military Rank where I had three incomplete regiments, one without arms until the day previous to the attack, greatly superior numbers of rebels charged furiously on to the very breastworks. The negroes met the enemy on the ramparts, and both sides freely used the bayonet—a most rare occurrence in warfare, as one or the other party gives way before coming in contact with steel. The rebels were defeated with heavy loss. The bridge at Moscow, on the line of railroad from Memphis to Corinth, was defended by one small regiment of blacks. A cavalry attack of three times their number was made, the blacks defeating them in the three charges made by the rebels. They fought them three hours, without cavalry either up, when the defeat was made complete, many of the rebel dead being left on the field. A cavalry force of three hundred and fifty attacked three hundred rebel cavalry near the Big Black, with signal success, a number of prisoners being taken and marched to Vicksburgh. Fonsner attacked Paducah with seven thousand five hundred men. The garrison was between five and six hundred, nearly four hundred being colored troops recently raised. What troops could have done better? So, too, they fought well at Fort Pillow till overpowered by greatly superior numbers.

The above enumerated cases seem to me sufficient to demonstrate the value of the colored troops. I make no mention of the cases on the Atlantic coast, with which you are perfectly familiar.

I have the honor to be very respectfully, your obedient servant,
L. THOMAS, Adjt.-Gen.

Obituary.

CHIEF-JUSTICE HORNBLOWER.

New-Jersey, in the death of the late JOSEPH C. HORNBLOWER, has lost one of her most eminent citizens. He was born at Belleville in 1777, educated chiefly at Orange, and after spending some time in the commercial house of JAMES KIP, of this City, entered, in 1793, the law office of DAVID B. OGDEN, of Newark. He became a member of the bar in 1802, and at once secured a lucrative and honorable practice; and his integrity and ability made him prominent in the legal profession. In 1832 he was appointed Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of New-Jersey, and held the office fourteen years, retiring in 1846. His decisions during this period are marked by learning, legal acumen and high moral principle, and occupy several volumes of the New-Jersey Law Reports. The Newark Advertiser says of the Chief Justice:

"He was at home in the niceties of real law, with its dependencies of descent, remainders and executory devises, and in the technicalities of special pleading; he expounded with admirable skill the rules of evidence; he was master of the common law of contracts; he was familiar with the criminal law, which he administered with the learning of a Judge and the tenderness of a father. His opinions are remarkable for their exhaustive treatment of the matters to which they relate. Conflicting cases and innumerable authorities are examined with care, and there is a closeness and precision in his logic that weaves a golden cord of reason across the tissue of his opinions; and there is a beauty of diction which gilds the whole. Many of his judgments will be landmarks in the law. To illustrate a single one: Great difficulty had long been found in criminal cases in procuring juries, in consequence of the privilege extended to the counsel of the prisoner of asking the jurors if they had preconceived opinion of the case, and if so, declaring them incompetent to sit. In the celebrated case of Symons, tried for the murder of his wife in 1840, Chief Justice HORNBLOWER reversed the practice on this subject, and the rule as he then determined it has ever since been acted upon by all the judges of our Supreme Court, and universally approved by the bar. In Polly Bodine's case in New-York, over four hundred jurors had to be examined before a panel could be formed to try the accused, and even then without avail. The full as laid down by Chief Justice HORNBLOWER put an end to this absurd practice in New-Jersey, and has been suppressed and followed in other States."

Chief Justice HORNBLOWER was all his life a practical Anti-Slavery man. He did his best to extinguish the last remnants of the Slavery institution which lingered in some portions of his State. In politics he was a Whig and a supporter of HENRY CLAY's Presidential claims. In 1856 he was Chairman of the New-Jersey delegation, and a Vice-President of the Philadelphia Convention, which nominated FREMONT. He took a warm interest in the last Presidential election, and spoke frequently at union meetings, though over eighty years of age. Up to the very last he retained his interest in national affairs, and died almost at the moment when his relatives were reading to him an account of the recent Baltimore Convention. His last words were: "Convention—convention—for freedom of mankind."

Mr. HORNBLOWER was a member of the Presbyterian Church and a man of exalted piety. He was President of the New-Jersey Historical Society, and officially connected with many benevolent and religious associations.

The funeral of Mr. HORNBLOWER will take place this afternoon at 2 o'clock, at the First Presbyterian Church in Newark.

MARY E. SHEFFIELD.

Died, at Memphis, on the 5th of June, on her way from Vicksburgh, of illness contracted during her self-sacrificing labors, Miss MARY E. SHEFFIELD, of Norwich, Conn., one of the most accomplished, faithful and conscientious teachers of the National Freedmen's Relief Association. By her death the association has lost one of its most efficient co-workers, and the poor and oppressed have lost a devoted friend.

AN ENORMOUS SCALE.—An enormous scale, the largest perhaps in the country, has just been finished at Cleveland for the Forge Pile Works in this city. They are intended to weigh the monster twenty-inch gun, and are of the following dimensions: Length, 30; breadth, 7½ feet, and 6 feet in height. They will weigh from two pounds and a half up to one hundred tons, and are so nicely and accurately adjusted that the weight of half a pound will turn the beam. A half pound weight on the beam weighs one ton on the scales. They are built entirely of wrought iron, with the exception of the lever heads, which are cast. The pivots are made of wrought iron steel edges, for the purpose of securing greater strength and durability. The cost of these scales, when set up in Pittsburgh, will be $2,000.—Pittsburgh Chronicle, June 10.

A Formidable Monitor.

THE IRON-CLAD STEAMER TONAWANDA.

From the Philadelphia Bulletin.

This formidable monitor, now in rapid course of completion at our Navy-yard, was designed and built under the supervision of Henry Hoover, Esq., Naval Constructor, attached to this station. The hull of the Tonawanda is one solid mass of live oak. Her extreme length is 272 feet 9 inches; length between perpendiculars, 250 feet; beam moulded, 40 feet; beam extreme over armor, 53 feet; depth of hold, 12 feet 8 inches; area of greatest traverse section, 566 square feet; depth of upper saddle-plate, 5 feet 9 inches; weight of wooden hull, 1,800 tons; immersing draft, mean, 8 feet 9 inches; load draft, 12 feet 8 inches; displacement, when ready for sea, 3,800 tons; projection of overhang, 12 inches. At the underside of the beam, at the load line, the clamp or backing is 8 feet thick, reduced to 7 inches at a distance of 3 feet 8 inches, falling in fair with the ceiling. Thickness of timber in hull, 36 inches; planking, 7 inches; lagging, 12 inches; armor, 5-inch plates; thus offering a solid resistance of 36 inches of live oak and 5 inches of iron-plating, to which must be added the armor of armor-bearers, which passes longitudinally around and encircling the whole ship. They are of iron, 6 inches deep by 4 inches thick, and placed 4 inches apart, making the plating, in reality, 11 inches thick. The weight of the side armor and zones is 720,864 pounds. The deck beams are of oak, 12 by 14, and 36 inches from centre to centre. The deck consists of first an oak planking 6½ thick, then two ¾ inch iron plates; on top of this comes yellow pine planking 7 inches thick. The Tonawanda has no furniture, but forward one carrying the pilot house. There are 23 feet inside diameter, 9 feet high, and composed of eleven one-inch plates. Each turret, with machinery, weighs 316,200 pounds, pilot house 45,300 pounds. Four 15-inch guns complete her armament, each gun with its carriage weighing 56,000 pounds. The amount of fighting expected may be judged from the fact of her carrying 16,000 rounds of powder, 50,000 pounds of shell, 60,000 pounds of solid shot. The magazine and shell-rooms are on either side of the turrets.

Her engines by Emerson & Bonsey are horizontal direct acting, 36 inches diameter of cylinder, 24 inch; on shaft, 12 inch; screws, of brass, 10 feet diameter and 14 feet pitch. Steam is supplied by two of Martin's vertical tube boilers, having a front of 20 feet 6 inches, 14 feet deep, 6½ feet high. There are 16 furnaces in all, each 6½ feet by 3. Each screw is driven by its own independent engine. By this arrangement the ship can be steered by the propellers alone, in case the rudder should become damaged or be carried away. The anchor, when let go, takes the chain directly from the locker without overhauling. It can veer away chain with perfect safety, and is easily controlled while riding heavily. In one minute the chain is passed to the capstan, and all is then ready to heave away. In ordinary cases the chain is taken in at the rate of three fathoms per minute, when the anchor is shackled. This is all performed without handling the chain, paying it in and out of the locker.

The Great Ocean Iron-clad Dictator.

FIRST EXPERIMENT OF BOILER—REVOLVING TURRETS WITH THE IMMENSE NEW ARMAMENT—DESCRIPTION OF THE VESSEL.

It having leaked out in naval circles, that the immense engines of the great ocean iron-clad Dictator would be moved for the first time yesterday, no little interest was felt in a large portion of the community, and about 9 or 10 o'clock groups of foreign and American naval officers and of professional men generally might have been seen in the neighborhood of the Delamater Iron Works. Although the fact that steam was to be applied to the machinery had not been communicated to the reporters, the press was not entirely without representation. Before noon it was announced, by the arrival of a gentleman from Mr. ERICSSON, that the raising of steam was to be postponed entirely—the contractor having determined not to delay the progress of the vessel by any mere formal test, as the Government is known to have expressed a desire to have the vessel completed for active duty as soon as circumstances will permit. No sooner had this information been vouchsafed than our reporter determined to make some inquiries as to the progress of the ship, and he immediately discovered that a still more important operation had been completed and might be inspected. This was nothing less than the successful arming of the ship with the immense new Ericsson guns, of which so much has been surmised that a brief description will not be out of place. It is known that the first and second batches of monitors are armed with three kinds of ordnance—the 11-inch, the 15-inch and the 100-lb. rifle-gun. The first two are of the Dahlgren, and the latter of the Parrott type. The Ericsson 9-inch differs from all these as widely as the imagination can conceive. It is, in fact, so novel and revolutionary in its character that its success will in Europe at least, be looked upon as a national matter. Capt. ERICSSON is said to have entered into a contract with the Government to guarantee that his gun will burn over fifty pounds of powder, while the 15-inch Dahlgren, when throwing a 450-pound shot during DUPONT's attack upon Charleston, only burned thirty-five pounds. The British 68-pounder (of 95,000 lbs.) said by His Royal Highness the Duke of Cambridge to be the most powerful gun in the service, with sixty pounds of powder, acquires only one-fourth of fifty pounds, has the initial velocity of 1,600 feet per second and therefore a punching power against iron plates of 27,000 pounds. The rifled gun, with charges of one-tenth to one-twelfth of the shot, and the 15-inch gun with a charge of 35 pounds to its shot of 425 pounds, have velocities varying from 1,100 to 1,400 feet per second. The 300-pound Parrott has, therefore, a punching power of 49,000 pounds, and the 15-inch gun of 55,000 pounds. The new gun, with 75 pounds charge, (one-third of the weight,) will have as great velocity as the 68-pounder, and its punching power 55,000, or exactly double that of the English gun. With 100 pounds of powder, its velocity should be raised to 2,000 feet, and its punching power will be 55,000 pounds, or 240 tons. It can be seen from this that if a proper use of ordnance of this magnitude can be successfully constructed, naval artillery is years ahead of the science of building war ships, for there is no craft in the world which would not be fairly capsized by a blow from a ball striking her with a force of 300 tons. The importance of the forthcoming experiment to the Dictator may therefore be imagined.

DESCRIPTION OF THE DICTATOR.

The accounts of the launch of this great ship contained so erroneous description of her, which was obtained from unreliable sources. The following is a correct and brief analysis of the most prominent features of the vessel.

The Dictator is a monitor. She is exactly like the Kearsarge in all essential points, save that in the latter 21 feet has been added amidships, and that she will have two turrets. The Dictator is 320 feet long, 50 feet wide, and 21 feet deep. The armor projects 19 feet forward, and 31 feet aft. The hull is made of 1-inch iron. The frames are of 3-inch, by 4½-inch, by 3-inch angle iron, the long leg being inward, and spaced 18 inches from face to face. The deck is of 9-inch plank. There are 4 1-inch plates in the armor, and these are further strengthened and supported by three armor stringers, 42 inches thick and 7 inches wide, running completely around the ship, making the entire thickness of armor near the water-line no less than 10½ inches. The armor and its wooden backing are four feet thick and 72 inches high. The deck is plated with two 1-inch plates. The turret is 21 feet inside diameter; its thickness is 15 inches, nearly four times the thickness of the armor of the Warrior and Gloire. The turret, as already stated, has Capt. ERICSSON's two 12-inch guns in it, and revolved very successfully with them. The engines have vertical cylinders 10 inches in diameter, and have 48-inch total beating. The boilers have 1,296 grate, and a total heating surface of about 20,000 square feet. The propeller is a four blade one, of cast iron, 21 feet 6 inches in diameter. All the tests of the armor and turrets succeeded; every revolution of the latter being smooth and easy.

The Draft in Brooklyn.

NAMES DRAWN THEREFROM IN THE SIXTH, TWELFTH AND SIXTEENTH WARDS AND NEW LOTS.

The drawing to fill up the deficiency under the last draft in the Second Congressional District of Brooklyn, took place yesterday at the headquarters of Provost-Marshal MARPOE, No. 20 Grand-street. The following are the names of the persons drawn in the Sixth, Twelfth, Sixteenth Wards, and town of New Lotts. There was no excitement, and everything passed off quietly.

Charge of Judge Russell to the Grand Jury.

THE SUPPRESSED NEWSPAPERS IN NEW-YORK.

At the Court of General Sessions, yesterday morning, the following gentlemen were impannelled as Grand Jury:

CYRUS MASON, Foreman.

John E. Anderson,
Nath'l W. Carter,
Martin L. Delafield,
Mathew Hettrick,
John J. Hyer,
David C. Maxwell,
Jas. H. Pinckney,
Wm. Poole,
Wm. Remson,
J. Austin Stevens, Jr.,
Amos H. Trowbridge,
Sam'l A. Beekman,
Seabury Brewster,
Jacob D. T. Revere,
Benedict Lewis, Jr.,
Willard Phelps,
Wm. T. Smith,
W. M. Thurman,
John P. Worstell,
John Townsend,
JOHN D. Welsh,
Chris. Zabriskie, Jr.

The Grand Jury having taken the usual oath, Judge RUSSELL delivered the following charge:

GENTLEMEN OF THE GRAND JURY:—A striking element of your oaths is, that you will leave no one "unprovided for fear." Not to be fearless in the discharge of your duty is as much a disregard of a grand juror's oath as to yield to a more corrupt motive. This suggestion is made more particularly in reference to a matter about to be submitted to you, which, in one aspect of it, arraigns the conduct of the agents of the General Government, acting, it is said, under its orders, and, in every point of view, involves the greatest delicacy and responsibility on your part.

The present condition of our country, however much to be regretted, does not dispense with our obligations to our State, as well as to our Federal Government. The observance of the one in no way conflicts with a regard for the other. Both sets of obligations can and do exist together, nor can there be, nor is there any want of harmony or consistency between them. We have the good fortune to live in a State which has no other in its entire extent for the Union, and in a city which yields the palm to no other for the promptitude with which it has invariably responded to all demands upon it for men and money to sustain the efforts of the General Government.

The very Constitution, which every one should want to see preserved inviolate, provides that "The United States shall guarantee to every State in this Union a republican form of government, and shall protect each of them against invasion, and on application of the Legislature or of the Executive, when the Legislature cannot be convened, against domestic violence." This provision could not have effect if, in times like these, when a State is perfectly loyal and engaged in the performance of all its duties, both to the General Government and its own citizens, the General Government can still step in and override and nullify its institutions.

The meaning of this provision evidently was, that when a State assumed a Republican form of Government and was carrying out such a system in good faith, the General Government should protect and not trample upon it. In this State we can boast of this condition of things. Our local government is eminently republican, and it has never been interrupted in its existence from the time of its first establishment. Although notwithstanding our present national difficulties, it have have extended their benefits to its citizens—the peace and order of society have been preserved—offenders have been brought to justice and punished in the usual way—and the whole machinery of justice has been moved, without any obstruction or suspension.

The question propounds itself seriously to us at this time, whether the execution of the highest military prerogative of the general Government can legally disturb or supersede the republican institutions of our State. Of course no resort to violence or open personal resistance can or will be advocated. The question should be decided in a quiet, legal way, and if the present juncture warrants it, this is a very proper occasion for originating and presenting it in such a form. It is distinctly provided, in another part of the Federal Constitution, that "this Constitution and the laws of the United States, which shall be made in pursuance thereof, and all treaties, &c., shall be the supreme law of the land, and the Judges in every State shall be bound thereby, anything in the Constitution or laws of any State to the contrary notwithstanding."

While we defer to this provision, we claim all have the right to inquire whether acts, done in the name of the General Government, are really built upon the Constitution or laws or treaties of the United States. On the 23d of the last month a proclamation, purporting to come from the President of the United States, and bearing all the usual marks of authority, was published in two of the newspapers of our City. This so-called proclamation contained a recommendation of a day of fasting and prayer, and the announcement that four hundred thousand additional men would have to be furnished by the loyal States, by the 15th of the present month, to aid in suppressing "the existing rebellious combinations," and that, in default of the latter, "immediate and peremptory draft" should follow.

In the City such an announcement was calculated to produce the greatest excitement, and did, for the few hours its falsity was undetected. Of course I do not assume to give you facts, for you are the tribunal to investigate the facts and present them in proper form. What I say is you have got charged from the publications of the day, or from public report, and it seems conclude your action, but I take it, I direct you to the proper inquiries. Other cities the counterfeiters of papers which had been imposed upon in the publication of this spurious proclamation discovered the fraud, which was at an early hour in the same day, they conferred with the agents of the General Government to endeavor to ferret out the guilty author. They were so occupied for several hours, when an order was issued by the general Government to its agents to incarcerate them, and take forcible possession of their establishments. The first part of the order was never fully executed. The second part was, and the forcible possession maintained for several days. The author of the fraud (it is said) has been discovered, and the newspapers in question have been exonerated from all suspicion of guilt or blame. If this be so, this is an instance of innocent men being summarily interfered with, or trespassed upon, in the sanctity of their persons and property. As such it is a violation of both the Federal and State Constitution, and it is your duty to examine into it. This is not a self-imposed or self-assumed duty by this court. The facts were communicated to the Executive of this State, and he addressed to the District Attorney of this county the communication I now read to you.

(The Judge then read Gov. SEYMOUR's letter, which has already appeared in our columns.) Acting upon the duty this court owes to the laws of this State, which is repeated in the official document I have just read to you, I beg to submit the matter to your earnest and most careful consideration. The court is convinced that you will deal with it in such a manner as becomes the dutiful and loyal citizens of a dutiful and loyal State; anything like political bias should be disregarded. The question is simply this: Have the laws of the State, in reference to the protection of person and property, been violated, and if so, who are the parties who have been concerned in it? No matter what their station may be, they must answer for the wrong if there be one. If the President of the United States, or other officer who assumed to issue the order, had no such power or authority, those who obeyed and enforced it are clearly responsible.

For the purposes of this occasion the court instructs you that such an order as has been referred to could not, under the circumstances stated, in any protection to those concerned in its execution. This will raise the question at issue between the State and general Government in a legal way. Any attempt to interfere with freedom of speech or liberty of the Press has been regarded and watched with the greatest jealousy by the constituents of our Federal and State Governments. These invaluable privileges are protected in both the Federal and State Constitutions. Neither Congress nor our State Legislature can make a law abridging either right. In the year 1798 the famous "Sedition Law" was passed by Congress, giving the Government extraordinary power in reference to publications calculated to mislead the authority. So unpalatable was this law that it was finally repealed. Two of the State Legislatures expressed decided opinions against its Constitutionality. At the time it was passed, the Government being in a state of comparative infancy, it ought probably to have been more favorably regarded, but it involved rights too dear to be trenched upon or surrendered. In reference to the subject matter of the grand jury's inquiries, you will receive evidence of the fact establishing his guilt, and if you are satisfied of it, you will present him for such an offence as, under the advice of the District Attorney (to whom you are entitled to an appeal for advice) may be proper. At common law the "spreading false news to make discord between the King and nobility, or concerning any great man of the realm," was an offence against the public peace, punishable with fine and imprisonment.

It may be that the elements of the common law will be invoked by the District-Attorney in reference to this offender. In reference to the parties engaged in taking and maintaining forcible possession of the newspaper establishments, the court instructs you that if there were three or more of them, they would be liable as for a riot, which has been defined to be "where three or more actually do an unlawful act or violence, either with or without a common cause or quarrel, or even do a lawful act, as removing a nuisance, in a violent or tumultuous manner." There is another subject I desire to call your attention to.

At the last term of this court my learned associate disposed of nearly all the unfinished prison cases then pending in this court, leaving very few to be tried at the present term, therefore you will perceive the necessity of devoting sufficient time each day until the business before you is completed, and that indictments not drawn and presented when they be brought in. By these means you will greatly facilitate the action of the courts. Your duties will not be very arduous, for crime has greatly decreased in this City. Last year at this time our country prison averaged about eighty prisoners on each corridor. At the present time they only average twenty. So my prompt action on your part all the prison cases can be disposed of in a few days, and you discharged from further attendance, as it is not intended to send before you any cases where the parties have entered into recognizance to appear and answer, that being the rule invariably adopted by this court at this season of the year. You have jurisdiction over all offences committed in this county, also over offences committed in any other county of the State, where the property of the proceeds of the felony has been brought into this county.

It is made my duty by law to call your attention to the statute against usury, the statute against lotteries, the statute against exhibitions, the statute for the purity of elections, the statute to suppress intemperance and regulate the sale of intoxicating liquors, and the statute entitled the "Ticket Passenger Act." The violation of either of these acts is declared to be a misdemeanor, and as such punishable by fine and imprisonment, or both, in the discretion of the court. You have a right to fix your own hours for meeting and adjourning, and your foreman can exclude any of petit jurors attendance without application to the court, you can select one of your own number to act as secretary to keep the minutes of your proceedings.

It takes twelve of you to find a bill, this the number to consider in, and twelve to form a quorum for the transaction of business. At the last February term of this court, in my charge to the Grand Jury, at the request of the county, on their legal right to originate complaints, I expressed myself very fully, which renders it unnecessary for me to dwell again on the subject, as you will find it printed in the book of instructions which will be sent to you by the District-Attorney, and to which I invite your special attention. Gentlemen, one of the officers will now conduct you to the Grand Jury Room.

SUPREME COURT—SPECIAL TERM.

was not sufficiently explained at the close of Change hour by the speculators for the rise to judge of its real importance. The English Funds still quoted ex-dividend and Broadstuffs are said to be firmer.

There is continued hesitancy at the Stock Exchange in the Railway Speculation. The bidding in the afternoon was firmer than on Saturday, especially on Reading and Illinois Central. Some other descriptions were equally firm, and the Miscellaneous list was again up on Pacific Mail, while lower on Cumberland Coal. The Government Stocks keep steady on both the 1881s, and the 5-20s.

At 4 o'clock the following prices were made, as compared with Saturday afternoon:

The following is the statement of the day's business at the office of the Assistant Treasurer of the United States: Total receipts, $2,772,724 25, including for Customs $62,000; payments, $2,307,270 44; balance, $444,053,250 19; 10-40s, $30,500.

Value of goods withdrawn from Warehouse during the month of April, 1864, $14,183,873.

BANKING AND FINANCIAL.

THE FOURTH NATIONAL BANK OF THE CITY OF NEW-YORK,

NOS. 37 AND 39 PINE-ST.,

NEW-YORK, 9th June, 1864.

Awards will be made by this Bank for a portion of the United States six per cent Bonds of 1881; bids for which will be opened by the Treasury Department on the 15th inst.

Correspondents of the Bank, and others desiring an interest in this Loan, are invited to communicate with us upon the subject. If by letter, parties can fix the rate, or if they prefer, can go in under the other to be made by this Bank, which will not be fixed until the day previous to the opening of the bids. It will be necessary to have all applications through this Institution in our possession by 10 o'clock the 14th inst.

MORRIS KETCHUM, PRESIDENT.

FIRST NATIONAL BANK, No. 4 WALL-ST., NEW-YORK, June 8, 1864.

On the 15th inst., at noon, the Secretary of the Treasury will open bids for Seventy-five Millions of Six Per Cent. Bonds of 1881—Coupon or Registered, the money to be paid by the successful bidders, one-third on the 15th, one-third on the 20th, and the balance on the 30th inst.

The First National Bank of this City will embody in its bid the orders of other parties, who will be required to abide by the rule offered by the Bank; to prepay ten per cent. on giving in their order, and to furnish the balance on the dates named by the Secretary of the Treasury.

The Bank will charge a commission of one-eighth of one per cent, and will deliver the Bonds here as soon as they are received from Washington. The Bonds will bear interest from the 1st July, and the interest from the date of the payment to the 1st of July will be adjusted according to the premium on gold, on the 1st of July.

Deposits can be made in this Bank by parties bidding for themselves the same as at the Sub-Treasury. In this case the deposit will be for two per cent of the amount bid for.

Unsuccessful bidders will have their money returned when they are notified that their bids are rejected.

Eight-Sixths, Greenbacks, Five Per Cent. Legal Tender Notes at their face, and National Bank Notes will be received, and orders must be handed in not later than Sunday, the 14th inst.

E. C. THOMPSON, President.

JAMES CURRIER, Cashier.

FIRST NATIONAL LOAN OF 1867.

Tenth National Bank, No. 280 Broadway, Fiscal Agent of the United States. Parties desiring to bid for the new issue of bonds of 1881, may have the same forwarded with no charge, by depositing the two per cent required by the Government on account thereof, which will be returned if unsuccessful. Bids must be handed in by the 15th inst. D. L. ROSE, President.

J. H. STEVE, Cashier.

FIRST NATIONAL BANK OF NEW-YORK,

NEW-YORK, May 26, 1864.

This Bank has now on hand, for immediate delivery, an ample supply of U. S. 10-40 Bonds, with Coupons from March 1. Payment may be made in any funds current in this City. SAMUEL C. THOMPSON, President.

WHISKY—Sales have been reported since our last of 1,800 bbls. in lots, at $1 31@$1 31½ for State, and $1 32@$1 33 for Western, ⅌ gallon.

WOOL—Influenced by the rapid rise in gold, exchange and cotton, and the high tariff legislation of Congress, wool has been much sought after during the past week, and prices have advanced, the market closing quite buoyantly. The week's sales comprise 275 bls. Domestic Fleece at 78c.@80c.; 120,000 lbs. Domestic Fulling at 72c.@80c.; 75,000 lbs. California at 60c.@70c.; 60,000 lbs. Rahet at 40c.; 600 bales Cape at 40c.@42½c.; 300 bales Buenos Ayres, private sales; 400 bales Donskoi, on private terms; 300 bales Smyrna at 27c.@37c.; 150 bales Smyrna unwashed at 22c.@44c.; and 900 bales Buenos Ayres, Rio Grande, Saigonica, and other foreign, on private terms. In Foreign, according to the Commercial Bulletin, sales have been made of 700,000 lbs. Domestic 70c.@90c. for fence, and 75c.@90c. for super and extra pulled, and 1,000 bales foreign, of all descriptions, including 600 bales Cape, at 40c.@65c., and lots of Mestiza at 43c.@45c. As the season wears to its close and week's in the hands of dealers are growing small by degrees and beautifully less, our manufacturers are evidently anxious to secure a supply of wool, which shall guaranty them against any possible contingency in regard to the receipt of the new clip. They evidently do not look for any material change in our market, and hence, notwithstanding the operation of causes which checked commercial transactions in other departments of the merchandise market, many of them are laying ahead of their immediate wants. They do this, moreover, at the risk of forcing up prices, at a period—as portending the opening rates of the new clip—when it is the usual policy to let them drop a little for the benefit of Western buyers. But the exigencies of consumption, at the present moment, are paramount to every other consideration; manufacturers must have wool to supply the enhanced requirements of the goods market, and so long as their business continues profitable and foreign supplies can be served defiance, it really matters little to them what may be the cost of the raw material, since the consumer of fabrics readily feels the bill. Advices from the West are to the effect that the clipping has already progressed to a considerable extent, and that small "blanket" lots have been sold, though not in sufficient quantity to establish anything like a market price. The bulk of the Western Wools of the new clip, as far as we are able to gather reliable information, are held at a range of 70c.@80c., including Michigan at 70c., and fine Ohio at the outside figure; and if commercial matters shall remain without material change, it is probable that the regular market in that section will open at something under these rates. This will afford a fair profit to the grower, and perhaps some small show of margin to the Eastern dealer, which latter party, we believe, very justly complains of not having made his bread-and-butter out of the last year's operations. Well-informed persons in the quarter estimate the present year's West crop of the West at an increase of 25 per cent, over that of 1863; and the percentage of increase would have been much larger but for the immense labor caused among the flocks by the memorable snow storm of January last.....In Philadelphia, sales have been made of 120,000 lbs. Domestic at 82c.@85c. for Fleece, and 37c.@60c. for Unwashed, ⅌ lb.

FREIGHTS—Have been quiet to-day and rates tending downward. For Liverpool, the engagements include 50,000 bushels Wheat, at 7¾d.@8¼d., by sailing vessel, and 4½d. by steamer; 30 boxes Bacon and 500 tcs. Lard, at 15s. For London, 2,000 bbls. Flour at 4½d.@1s. 5d.; 50 hhds. Tobacco, at 37s. 6d. For Glasgow, 20 tcs. Sperm Oil, at 35s. For Antwerp, 450 bbls. Petroleum, at 5s. 9d.@6c.

NEW PUBLICATIONS.

A TREATISE ON DISEASES OF THE SEXUAL SYSTEM, with an appendix; views on Mr. Syme's new method of treating stricture. By Erwaste R. Dixon, M.D. Ninth edition. Price $1.

EVERARDUS WARNER, No. 2 Vesey-st., Astor House.

From the New-York Journal of Medicine and Collateral Sciences.

"It is written in a clear, concise, vigorous style, and is valuable, as we think, to do much good. The descriptions are accurately drawn, and the remedial measures judicious. The practitioner will find it abounding in valuable hints, and the general reader will come across many useful sentiments, expressed in plain language.

From the Boston Medical and Surgical Journal.

Dr. Dixon has written much and well on various branches of surgery, his book shows a thorough acquaintance with modern practice; stricture, varicocele, hydrocele and fistula are particularly well treated of. In this, he has managed to centre attention to every page in this volume, an art that few medical writers possess.

"The author's acknowledged originality and thorough devotion to the rational principles of medicine, and his frequently under trying surgical circumstances, stamp it with more than ordinary interest."—London Lancet.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

THE REBELLION.

The latest intelligence from Gen. Grant's army is up to Monday morning, at which time an important movement was reported to be in successful progress. A report comes by way of Washington and Philadelphia, though not confirmed from other sources, that Gen. Hancock captured Bottom's Bridge on Sunday, by a bayonet charge, and that our whole army was safely across. There is probably no truth in the report.

From Gen. Butler's army everything is reported quiet.

There is no news from Gen. Sherman this morning.

The Chicago Journal learns that an important expedition left Memphis for some point east of that place about the 1st inst. The force is estimated at 20,000, of which one-half was cavalry, under the command of Gen. Grierson. It is estimated that Corinth, Miss., was the destination of the expedition, the object being to defeat the rebel Gen. Forrest's plans for interrupting Gen. Sherman's communications. Whatever may be the object of the expedition, there is reason to believe, from the character of its leaders, that it will prove a success.

Morgan's raid has at last come to an end, and summary punishment has been meted out to him. The gallant Burbridge, who, by the way, is not a Kentuckian, pounced upon him yesterday morning near Paris, while the rebels were gorging themselves with a hearty breakfast, and after a severe fight, scattered the bandits in every direction, killing and wounding three hundred and capturing seven hundred prisoners. Burbridge continued to pursue the main retreating force of the enemy.

The movements of the rebels in the Trans-Mississippi Department are looked upon in some quarters as intended to reinforce Johnston by Dick Taylor's command, which, at last accounts, was still on the west side of the Atchafalaya River.

CONGRESS.

In the Senate yesterday, a bill was passed granting the right and interest of the United States in certain lands of the Grand Prairie Common Field, in Missouri, to that State. A lengthy report was received relative to the seizure of the silver mine of Sylvester Mowry, in Mexico, by order of Gen. Carleton, which was laid upon the table and ordered to be printed. The resolution relative to recognizing the Free State of Arkansas, were brought up, and after a lengthy debate, in which Messrs. Sumner and Lane took a prominent part, was, with the credentials of Messrs. Finnegan and Baxter, who claim seats as Senators from Arkansas, referred to the Judiciary Committee. The Military Committee was discharged from further consideration of the bill relative to increased railroad facilities between New-York and Philadelphia. The Diplomatic Appropriation Bill was agreed to as it came from the House. The bill authorizing the Secretary of the Treasury to extend the Marine Hospital, at Chicago, was passed. Certain amendments to the Enrollment Bill were offered which, without reading, were ordered printed, after which the Senate adjourned.

In the House of Representatives, a resolution was offered to the effect that Robert C. Schenck, having tendered his resignation as a Major-General of Volunteers on the 21st of December, 1863, to take effect on the 5th, he was not, by reason of his having held such office, disqualified to occupy a seat in the Thirty-eighth Congress, but that Frank P. Blair, continuing to hold his commission as a Major-General of Volunteers, was disqualified from holding a seat in said Congress. A Committee of Conference was asked of the Senate on the disagreeing amendments to the bill to increase the soldiers' pay. A report from the Conference Committee on the Military Appropriation Bill, granting full pay and bounty to negroes who were free previous to the 19th of April, 1861, was concurred in. The $300 claims were brought up, but no action was taken. A joint resolution denying the right of States declared by the President to be in rebellion to appoint electors for President and Vice-President, was laid on the table. A resolution was adopted, asking why members of Congress could not get into the hospitals. A peace resolution was offered, providing for the assemblage of a convention of delegates from all the States, North and South, but no action was taken. The House bill to repeal the fugitive slave law was brought up, and, after a long discussion, passed. The House then adjourned.

GENERAL NEWS.

The Board of Aldermen had no quorum yesterday, and now stand adjourned without day. The Board of Councilmen adopted resolutions complimentary and of thanks to Francis Mandry, Thomas McGrath and Thomas Tyler, members of Engine Company No. 31, for gallant conduct in saving life at a recent fire in Division-street. A resolution was adopted requesting the Comptroller to reserve $5,000 of the City Contingent Fund, to be expended in welcoming home the three years' regiments belonging to this City, who have returned, and those yet to return this Summer. The Comptroller was requested to report what regulations exist for running the Eighty-sixth-street ferry to Astoria. Two veto messages were received from the Mayor, one on the resolution to procure official badges for the Police Justices, and the other on the resolution directing the Corporation Council to take proceedings to open certain up-town streets on the West side of the City. The first, he says, involves a needless expense, and the second he regards as untimely and unnecessary, and says besides, that several remonstrances to it of property owners interested have been presented to him. The board adjourned to Thursday, 2 P. M.

The Mayor, Comptroller and City Inspector, as the Street-cleaning Contract Commission, met at the office of the City Inspector at 11 A. M. yesterday, to act upon expected proposals for cleaning the streets for a term of five years, in accordance with specifications modified to suit the views of contractors, who objected to them as originally adopted, and who had declined to put in proposals on a former invitation to compete for the contract; but, on opening the estimate box, it was found that no bids had been presented. The Commissioners then conferred briefly in private, and immediately afterward the Mayor announced that another effort would be made to make a contract, and that before again inviting bids, the Corporation Counsel would be consulted to know if the specifications can be further altered to satisfy contractors; and he also said that ample time would be given in which to present bids.

The charge to the Grand Jury of his Honor City Judge Russell, at the General Sessions yesterday, touching the recent suppression of the World and Journal of Commerce, and their conduct in regard to the publication of the bogus proclamation, together with his Honor's views of State rights, etc., will be found in the law column.

Edward Hunter, the wife murderer, was yesterday sentenced to imprisonment in the State Prison at hard labor for the residue of his life, by Recorder Hoffman, sitting at the General Sessions. Before sentence, in reply to the usual question as to what he had to say why sentence should not be pronounced, prisoner's counsel read a very remarkable statement, an abstract of which will be found in the law column.

A large audience assembled at the Cooper Institute, last evening, to listen to Rev. Mr. Bellamy's address on the state of public opinion in England with regard to the American war.

The sixth annual convention of the New-York State Sportsmen's Clubs was held last evening, at the rooms of the Sportsmen's Club of this City.

A letter dated on board the United States steamer Glaucus, off Wilmington, N. C., May 28, gives the particulars of the burning of that steamer. The fire broke out in the boiler room, when they were about seven miles from their station, and spread with great rapidity. Signals were made to the fleet, which were answered, but none of the vessels came to their assistance. Capt. Caldwell, after doing his utmost to save the ship, finally despaired of so doing, and ordered the sick and the paymaster's money-books put into the boats and made preparations to leave. He did not, however, relinquish his efforts to subdue the flames; and shortly after the sick were put into the boats he commenced to get the better of them. He then ordered the sick brought back, and after a long struggle finally succeeded in extinguishing the fire. All the stores in the hold and the wood-work supporting the gun-deck have been destroyed, and the vessel is otherwise badly damaged.

The Common Council of Newark, N. J., has appropriated the sum of four hundred dollars to all men drafted and accepted in that city who furnish substitutes or serve in person. The Committee of the Council also furnish substitutes at $460, the drafted men paying $50 toward the bounty and $2 for expenses. Several thousand dollars have already been paid out for this purpose, but in no instance have they paid the $300 exemption.

The Stock market was partially better yesterday, as compared with Saturday's last prices. Money 6@7 ⅌ cent. Gold returned to 196@196¼, and after the English news sales were made as high as 199 ⅌ cent.

Flour was quiet and heavy yesterday. Desirable lots of Wheat were in good demand at somewhat firmer prices. Corn was depressed and much cheaper. Provisions were more freely dealt in, especially Pork, which advanced materially. Groceries were in moderate request, as were also Hay, Fruit, Hides, Leather, Petroleum, Cotton, Whisky, Tallow and Tobacco. The freight market was inactive and rates were easier.

The cattle market at Forty-fourth-street is supplied with nearly 3,500 fresh bullocks. The average quality of the offerings is considerably below last week. Prices have experienced a material decline, while the market has been much depressed, closing heavily. The exorbitant rates of two weeks ago are already finding a more appropriate level. The lower grades of cattle have sold at a greater decline than prime beeves. We quote the falling off from 4c.@4½c. ⅌ lb.; prime steers selling as high as 19½c.; medium at 16c.@17c., net weight. Arrivals of sheep at Sixth-street are moderate. Demand not very active. Shorn sheep rate at 7½c.@8c., live weight.

The Farming Class—Their Power.

The London Spectator has lately remarked, with an intelligence in regard to foreign countries unusual to an English journal, that the really governing class in America were not the inhabitants of cities but the small freeholders cultivating the soil. It is to these that observers must look if they would see what is to be the popular decision on political questions or the continuance of the war. And according to the Spectator this class is distinguished by a certain Scotch quality called dourness, which inclines them to thorough radical measures. There is much shrewd observation in this view of our agricultural masses.

We of the cities, where a great deal of the froth and clamor of American society comes to the surface, do not always realize that after all we are scarcely more than bubbles on the great stream of American life. The deep controlling current flows below in the silent farming and rural classes. Except through her press, New-York, for instance, has very little influence in the agricultural communities. One only needs to travel awhile in the vast farming districts of the West to realize how insignificant, after all, is this great commercial City. The "farmers," as the London journal rightly judges, have shaped the policy, through its whole history, of the Republican and Union party; they have in fact framed its platform, and it is they who feed the armies and who will determine how long the war shall be carried on. They govern the Republic.

It is true the intellect of the cities is continually educating and training them; but, on the other hand, they possess certain native qualities which education and refinement do not much affect, and which will determine the destiny of the nation. They have one peculiarity, which, we suppose, is contained in the Scotch idea of dourness; that is, stubbornness or tenacity. When they are fairly penetrated with an idea, nothing can easily dispossess them of it; and when they are determined on making it real in practical life, no obstacles, or losses, or dangers, can discourage them in the effort.

One of the grand ideas of this class has always been American Nationality, or Union, or a Republican imperial power over the continent, or, however we may name it—the idea of one Government, based on free institutions, ruling this whole Western Hemisphere.

Within eight years another grand idea has taken possession of this powerful body, which has been continually developing itself since; namely, the obligation of individual liberty for all classes and colors and persons; or, as it took a concrete form, opposition to Slavery. The Republican platform in 1856, was the first great organized expression of it. That campaign accomplished far more than any one has ever imagined, in advocating this idea of liberty. The excesses and bad faith of the South stimulated its growth, and in 1860 it organized itself in the Government. When the rebellion began, these two most powerful principles—nationality and liberty—at once threw the whole agricultural population of the Union, with intense enthusiasm, into this terrible struggle.

Since then, the most patriotic devotion of the West and of our rural districts to the war, is a proof of how dear these ideas were to them; and the noble record of Republican legislation in Congress is an evidence of the continued progress of these principles. To the influence of the farmers of the East and West we especially owe the abolition of Slavery in the District of Columbia, its prohibition in the Territories, the new treaty on the Slave Trade, the offer of compensated emancipation, the arming of the negroes, and, finally, and best of all, the proposition for the amendment of the Constitution. As the Spectator says, they incline to thorough measures, and they do not easily give up what they have begun. To them, Mr. Lincoln especially represents their two great principles of nationality and liberty. He has come from among them. He knows them thoroughly. Though radical and dour to their enemies, they are cautious. Like him, they move slowly, but very surely. They never like to take a step backward. Possibly if a more progressive man had been in the Presidential Chair, he might have moved too fast, and have offended or alienated this important class. They have set their faces with a true British stubbornness to the utter extirpation of Slavery on this continent and the entire restoration of the National Government; and they will do it if it cost a whole generation of their young men, and the South be left to crocodiles. This is the nature of the American rural class; it is the American nature. It is this power of an unconquerable will which is carrying these hundreds of thousands of young men through such superhuman efforts, and which has made the name of American valor illustrious forever. The bone and muscle of every army is always the agricultural class. Here it is fortunately the class most devoted to liberty and nationality.

A Memorable Campaign of Last Year—Its Lesson for the Future.

Gen. Grant has undoubtedly a very hard job in hand in re Richmond; but let us recall for a moment the job he had in hand last year at this time. We refer, of course, to Vicksburgh.

It was in the Autumn of 1862, while the army of Gen. Rosecrans was yet at Nashville, that Gen. Grant began to gather and get ready his forces to attempt the reduction of the great rebel stronghold of the Mississippi River. His original plan of operation was by a double line of advance—one column under Gen. Sherman, pushing down the river to attack Vicksburgh in front or flank, and the other column under Grant himself, pushing down the Mississippi Central Railroad to strike Vicksburgh in the rear. In November the great campaign was fairly begun. Grant moved down the railroad and occupied Holly Springs, where he accumulated an immense quantity of supplies and military stores. The rebels, however, under Van Dorn, moved up promptly to meet him, and by a desperate effort succeeded in interrupting his advance, capturing Holly Springs, with all its stores, and baulking the movement in its very inception. Further attempts on that line being for the time impracticable, he moved his entire force back to the line of the Memphis and Charleston Railroad. But Gen. Grant did by no means give up the work he had undertaken of reducing Vicksburgh.

The other great column of his army, under Sherman, reached the vicinity of Vicksburgh at the close of December. On the 27th of that month his forces disembarked at Chickasaw Bluff, north of the city, formed in line of battle, advanced toward the city, had a terrific contest of two days' duration, were defeated with great loss, and on the 30th fell back from before Vicksburgh, and moved up the river. But even this did not induce Grant to abandon his efforts to capture Vicksburgh.

In the early part of the year, having moved the force under his own immediate command to Memphis, he proceeded with it down the Mississippi, formed a connection with Sherman's column, and again began the work of attempting Vicksburgh. After many tribulations and great labor, the army, with a naval cooperating force, was gotten in front of the city. There stood the stronghold, in a position of almost unequaled strength, its formidable batteries sweeping the river for miles, and barring its passage—its works on the North impregnable, as we had already discovered—its works in the rear unapproachable, and its front scowling defiance. Our army was in a most noisome and deadly locality, and the troops were perishing by thousands, and the greatest General might well have stood still in despair. But Gen. Grant did not give it up, although, we remember, the people of the North, especially the timid ones, were almost hopeless.

Grant tried various and sundry extraordinary schemes to surmount the all but insurmountable difficulties of the situation. He tried the famous canal, as a means of getting his army below the city. The great canal was by no means a great success, though it took a long time and a stupendous amount of labor; but Grant did not give the job up. He tried expeditions up the Yazoo River again and again, in order to carry his army to some point above the city, from whence he might strike down upon it. But the Yazoo expeditions had no hopeful issue. He tried the wonderful expeditions up the Sunflower River and through the bayous; but they were more wonderful than productive. He did not yet give it up, though the months were passing away.

The navy under Admiral Porter now began to be of real practical service. One or two of the vessels succeeded in running past the rebel batteries under a tremendous fire. Finally, a great part of the fleet and transports were gotten below the city, which greatly simplified matters. Grant's army, (it was now the month of May,) moved back inland from Young's Point, in front of Vicksburgh, where it had so long been stationed, marched south to a position below the city, where it found the fleet and supplies, and began to cross the river to Grand Gulf. The rebels had batteries there, but Grant took them. His difficulties were, however, by no means ended. Before him was the rebel army forty thousand strong, established in positions of great natural strength and strongly fortified. But Grant did not give up the work, nor did he delay it.

Starting out with a toothpick for himself, and only two or three days rations for his army, he struck boldly at the army of his enemy, divided their forces, defeated them in five heroic battles, and drove the remnant headlong behind the hills and works of Vicksburgh. The nut was not yet cracked. There was the stupendous line of fortifications, and thirty thousand or more rebels to defend them. He assailed their works with tremendous force, but was repulsed with heavy loss. Gen. Jo. Johnston was gathering an army on his rear and flanks, and things again began to look very bad. But Grant did not give it up.

He kept Johnston at bay with one column, and laid regular siege to the stronghold with the main body of his army. Weeks passed away. The rebels boasted; the Northern croakers croaked; the Copperheads hissed, and the timid trembled. At length, after much endurance, great labor and struggles, and a six weeks' siege, Vicksburgh surrendered on the 4th of July, 1863—the very day which had been appointed for another assault upon it in force.

Grant had been at work at it three-quarters of a year; had tried innumerable plans and various lines of approach, had often been baulked, but never despaired, and finally succeeded.

We recall these facts of last year as fitting to be thought of at this moment. Some of the warlike Scribes and military Sadducees are already beginning to get perturbed about Grant's prospects before Richmond. Some timid patriots are already beginning to think—well, they hardly know what to think. But really, after all, will Grant ever take Richmond? Remember the history of Vicksburgh!

Lee's army, it is true, is bigger than Pemberton's, though probably not more than twice as large. But Grant too, has a larger force now than he had then. Remember Vicksburgh.

A Deserved Compliment.

We regret to hear that Rev. R. S. Cook, Secretary of the Sabbath Committee, has been compelled by failing health to resign that position, and to abandon wholly the sphere of public labor in which, for the last twenty-five years, he has been so eminently useful. A Committee of the Association has addressed him the following letter:

New-York, June 6, 1864.

Reverend and Dear Sir: The New-York Sabbath Committee, at a special meeting held last evening, received and accepted your resignation as Secretary. They requested me, undersigned to express to you the sincere regret which all the board feel in thus terminating so long and so pleasant an official connection with you. Be assured that while impaired health compels you to leave the service of this committee, you bear with you the highest respect and warmest sympathies of all its members.

The committee are fully aware that your work has often been extremely difficult, and that you have always been untiring in its performance. They are not unmindful that you entered upon this enterprise of Sabbath reform as a pioneer—that you had but few if any precedents to guide your labors in this comparatively uncultivated field of Christian society. They express their own opinion, and they believe they also express the sentiments of the Christian public, by saying that to your efforts to promote a better observance of the Sabbath in this City and a large portion of the country, you have evinced a remarkable forecast of public sentiment on the subject of this reform, a wise judgment in adapting means to the ends to be attained, and that you have uniformly manifested rare abilities as an executive officer.

As the committee feel that no small part of their reputation for efficiency and success in diminishing Sabbath desecration has been won by your ardent zeal and continued efforts—often overtaxing your physical strength—they will always share with you liberally in any future success which kind Providence may yet lift to believe upon this sacred cause.

Sincerely hoping that freedom from official duties and cares will do much to improve your health, we remain, very truly, your friends,

NORMAN WHITE,
NATHAN BISHOP,
FRED. G. FOSTER.

Rev. R. S. Cook.

Interesting Ceremony at West Point.—The ceremony of dedicating the site for the Battle Monument, will take place at West Point, N. Y., to-morrow, June 15. The Executive Committee, in behalf of the officers of the army, invite the attendance of the officers of the navy, and the friends of both branches of the service, upon the occasion. An address will be delivered by Gen. Geo. B. McClellan.

We may add that the committee are anxious to secure designs for the monument, and propose to offer a prize for the one which shall be accepted. The plan, to which all designs must be adapted, includes a mausoleum for the bodies of such officers as may be interred at West Point, the tablets for each officer of the regular army fallen in the present war, and a general tablet for the enlisted men.

Federal and State Credit in Europe.

From the Albany Argus.

Consulate General, U. S. A.,
Frankfort-on-the-Main, May 10.

His Excellency, Horatio Seymour:

The London Times contains a rumor that the Legislature of New-York intend to pay the interest of her debt in currency. I hope this may prove an unfounded rumor, and that the semi-annual interest will be paid in coin. The rumor has already had the effect to depress U. S. bonds, as the Germans say that if the State does this, it is probable the United States will do in like manner. I think there is no great amount of New-York bonds held abroad, but I hope you will urge the necessity of having the same paid in coin, and by adopting this plan you will only benefit our securities and increase the amount of investments in Europe on the same.

I am, &c., your obedient servant,
WM. W. MURPHY, Consul-General.

Arrivals in the City.

Hon. Emerson Etheridge, Kentucky; H. De F. Young, of Major-Gen. Baldy Smith's Staff, and Maj. L. A. Grant, U. S. Vols., are at the St. Nicholas Hotel.

Dr. Burnham, Massachusetts; John Harlman, Col. Horatio F. Averill, New-York; and W. T. Cunningham, Philadelphia, are at the Metropolitan Hotel.

NEWS FROM WASHINGTON.

Special Dispatches to the New-York Times.

Washington, Monday, June 13.

Significant.

A cargo of 40,000 shovels and a number of siege guns was shipped from here last week, consigned to Gen. Grant.

The Tax Bill.

The Ways and Means Committee, at their session to-day, finished up the interminable Tax Bill, which will be reported to the House to-morrow, and, if possible, be pressed to a vote. The Senate amendment, taxing whisky, was adopted by the committee in its original form.

The Tariff Bill.

The Senate Finance Committee to-day finished the Tariff Bill, and will report it to-morrow. The probability, however, is that it will not be acted on until the Tax Bill is passed. The bill agreed upon by the committee reduces considerably the duties on several of the leading articles, including duty on foreign liquors.

Admission of Arkansas.

An animated debate sprung up in the Senate to-day, on resolution to admit the Arkansas delegation to seats in that body, and ended in referring the matter to the Judiciary Committee. Senators Sumner and Kennedy united in opposing their admission. The indications are that the committee will report unfavorably to their admission.

Extra Compensation for Mr. Ericsson.

The House Naval Committee to-day agreed to report a resolution granting extra compensation to Mr. Ericsson, who is engaged in the construction of iron-clads at New-York. This action of the Committee, though strictly just and proper, in view of the enhanced prices of labor and material, is calculated to establish a bad precedent, and will resent in a rush here of every man engaged in that business with similar claims.

Soldiers' Aid Association.

The New-York Soldiers' Aid Association, of Washington, D. C., completed their permanent organization on Saturday evening, at the Loyal League Rooms, Seventh-street, by electing Hon. Reuben E. Fenton, President; Judge J. M. Granger, Vice-President; Gen. St. John B. Skinner, Treasurer; P. D. Foster, Recording Secretary; J. M. Farrell, Corresponding Secretary; Executive Committee—Ira Goodenow, D. E. Morgan, Chas. H. Beach, B. G. James, E. Ruth, Col. Dorrine, Col. Bradley Boyd and S. H. Sperry.

Hon. Reuben E. Fenton thanked the association for the honor they had conferred on him, stating that were the position one of honor alone, his other duties would compel him to decline it, but being a position requiring work and aid for the soldiers he should most cheerfully add the duties of this position to those already resting on him, and should perform them to the best of his ability. He then took the chair, declared the association ready to proceed to business and called on Col. Norris, the State agent, to explain how the association and State agency could best cooperate in rendering aid to the sick and wounded soldiers of our State. In response, Col. Norris gave a short but highly interesting account of the doings of the agency, since the opening of the present campaign, showing that his funds have been ample, enabling him, in advance of all other State agencies and aid societies, to send delicacies and comforts in large numbers to every battle-field. Still more, was need them, on account of the large number of the wounded, and also that men and women were needed here who would visit the hospitals, seek out the wants of our soldiers, administer to their necessities, remarking that in the hospitals here far more depended on the kind manner of the visitors and the sympathy shown to the soldiers, than on the amount of material aid he strewed.

He stated that minute men were also needed, who would be ready at call to go to the battle-field. In furtherance of these views, the association passed unanimously a resolution, of which the following is a part, viz.:

Resolved, That the Executive Committee be instructed to devise a plan of operation, in conjunction with the State agent, by which he and the association can best cooperate in aiding the sick and wounded from our State.

The meetings of the association have been largely attended, and every member has manifested a spirit of determination.

Arrival of Bodies.

The bodies of Lieut.-Col. Thos. Burnes, Twenty-first Connecticut Infantry, and Capt. Jos. Bacuus, First Connecticut Cavalry, who were killed in the battles before Richmond, arrived here to-day from the White House.

Personal.

Gen. Carrington, who has had a command in Gen. Burnside's corps since the first of May, has been ordered to report to Gen. Sherman. He left here to-day for the West with a portion of his staff.

Dispatches to the Associated Press.

Washington, Monday, June 13.

The Three Hundred Dollar Clause.

The Senate Military Committee favor the proposed repeal of the $300 commutation clause of the Enrollment Bill, with the exception of the Chairman, Senator Wilson, who has given notice of his intention to offer certain amendments, the effect of which will be to give $100 bounty to drafted men, at the end of a year's service, and a proportional bounty for a less time, if honorably discharged before the expiration of a year. He also proposes to add a provision for voluntary enlistments into the regiments of other States, from States in insurrection, and for securing the freedom of the wives and children of colored soldiers thus enlisted.

Gens. Blair and Schenck.

The Committee on Elections, in their report in the cases of Gens. Blair and Schenck, express the opinion that when the time arrives at which the duties of two incompatible offices are by law to be discharged, a man at liberty to choose between the two as effectually declines the one not entered upon by continuing in the one already held as he would vacate the former by entering upon the latter.

Movements of Gen. Crittenden.

Gen. Carrington, accompanied by Major Bishop, Capt. Knox and Capt. McCoun, members of his staff, left town this morning to report to Gen. Sherman.

The Christian Commission and the Wounded at the White House.

The Christian Commission has sent through Washington and Baltimore over a hundred delegates since the change of base, to work among the wounded coming in at the White House. Also, large quantities of stores. Four teams have been purchased in addition to those heretofore employed between the White House and the front. As many as five hundred boxes of stores have been sent in a single day. A steamship, barge and a schooner are chartered by the Commission to transport stores from Washington to the base.

The Sanitary Commission.

Some of the store basin of the United States Sanitary Commission are understood to be at Fortress Monroe, ready to move to any new base of supply with their usual sanitary stores and relief agents. They rendered valuable service at the White House. One boat, the Thompson, is at Baltimore.

Mowry's Silver Mines in Arizona.

The War Department, in reply to a resolution of the Senate, has transmitted a communication, from which it appears that Sylvester Mowry was arrested, and his silver mines in Arizona were seized by Gen. Carleton's order of June, 1862. He was tried upon the charge of aiding and abetting the rebellion by a board convened by that officer, found to be an enemy of the United States, and was confined in Fort Yuma, California. His property was seized and placed in the hands of a receiver, under an order confiscating the property of persons aiding the rebels, issued by Gen. Ruggles, commanding the Pacific Department.

Arrival of Wounded.

The Secretary Thomas A. Morgan arrived this morning from the White House with two hundred and eighty of our wounded men on board. There were a few very severe cases among them.

PROCEEDINGS OF CONGRESS.

SENATE.

Washington, Monday, June 13.

On motion of Mr. Harlan, of Iowa, (Union,) the bill granting the right and interest of the United States in the remaining lands of Grand Prairie Common Field, in township 45 north range, 7 east, in Missouri, to that State, for the support of schools in said township, was taken up and passed.

The Seizure of Arizona Silver Mines.

The President pro tem. presented a message from the Secretary of War, covering a report of the Adjutant-General, in reply to the resolution of the Senate of May 25, 1864, relating to the seizure of the silver mine of Sylvester Mowry, in Arizona, by order of Gen. Carleton, Commander in New-Mexico, and asking by what authority the mine is now worked, and what disposition is made of the proceeds.

The Adjutant-General relates the fact of the arrest of Mr. Mowry, under order of Gen. Carleton, on the 9th of June, 1862, on a charge of treasonable complicities with the rebels, and in view of a circular issued by Brig.-Gen. Wright, commanding the Department of the Pacific, declaring all property of enemies of the United States subject to confiscation, The property of Mowry was also seized, and a board of investigation appointed by Gen. Carleton reported it as their opinion that he had given aid and comfort to the enemy, and that there was sufficient reason to restrain him of his liberty, and bring him to trial before a military commission. Mowry was then confined, July 30, in Fort Yuma, California, awaiting trial; but, on Nov. 4, 1862, was unconditionally released, upon a letter from our War Department. Judge Turner directing the Commander of the fort to investigate the cause, and retain or release the prisoner, as might appear right. There being no evidence before the board, he was released accordingly. Since then Mowry has issued notice to the United States District-Attorney for New-Mexico and to the United States Marshal, alleging illegal seizure of his property, and, on the 12th of December, 1863, filed in the Fourth Judicial District of California a complaint against Gen. Carleton and the officers who acted under his order in the seizure. It is inferred, therefore, that the property has passed from the military to the civil authority; and as to by what authority the mines are being worked, or what disposition is made of the proceeds, there are no documents on file in the department affording information. The report was ordered to lie upon the table and be printed.

The Recognition of Arkansas.

Mr. Lane, of Kansas, (Union,) called up his resolutions relative to recognizing the Free State of Arkansas, and moved to refer them to the Judiciary Committee with the credentials of Messrs. Finnegan and Baxter claiming seats as Senators from Arkansas.

Mr. Sumner, of Massachusetts, (Union,) addressed the Senate at length, expressing his sympathy with every loyal character in every Southern State. He did not concede, however, that a majority of individuals could determine the rights of these federal States to the common rights of States in the Union. If so, Tennessee had not been self-condemned. To-day Andrew Johnson in himself was more than ten men in fidelity, and ten men would have saved Sodom, and beside, he was a Senator on this floor when his own State seceded, but he stayed behind and acted with us here. He contended that, notwithstanding the secession of Tennessee, Andrew Johnson was a Senator for his whole term, being then of the national body of the United States Senate, and being a citizen of the United States, he was competent to be the candidate for Vice-President, as he had been recently nominated, and no of a loyal citizen of any rebel State, of the District of Columbia, or a Territory, for these are included in the rightful jurisdiction of the United States. We must look beyond the virtues of individuals, for in all their virtue under heaven we could not make a State, where there was failure to comply with the requirements of the Constitution. The question is one involving the right of Arkansas to participate in the Presidential election, and that other question of how shall we treat the rebel States, both of which have a seat in Congress? Not only Arkansas, but Louisiana, and every other rebel State, will await the judgment on this question with interest.

Mr. Lane, of Kansas, said the Senators from Arkansas did not expect seats in this body, except on the condition that Slavery and involuntary servitude should not exist in that State, except in punishment of crime.

Mr. Sumner again alluded to the claim set up for admission, and said that the admission of the Arkansas gentlemen would be an admission that this rebel State, which had overthrown the authority of the Federal Government, could cast an electoral vote of the next Presidential election as weighty as that given by Massachusetts, Illinois or New-York. He was against the admission of Arkansas into the Government at this time under the existing circumstances; though at another time its admission might be very proper. The representation now proposed was that of a miserable minority, the majority being still in rebellion, and some of the minority were accused of having actually assisted the public enemy. He believed that the majority was always the basis of representation in a Republican Government, and that therefore the proposed recognition of Arkansas was an act of injustice to the loyal States, allowing this portion of the people of Arkansas to exercise the privilege of election whereby they might turn the scale in the choice of a President. Besides, there was no civil government in Arkansas, and it was contrary to the action of the ordinary forces of war, to establish a proper civil government. He then cited instances occurring at the late election in Arkansas to show how incapable Arkansas was to bear the burden, and discharge the duties of a State in this Union, being entirely revolutionary in its character, and due wholly to military authority. He denied that a State of this Union could be born of military power. He referred to the fact that Arkansas was shut out from commercial intercourse with the loyal States under the President's Proclamation, in which it is classed as an insurrectionary State, and, as far as he knew, was still under that law.

Mr. Johnson, of Maryland, (Union,) said he differed from the Senator in the opinion that these States went out of the Union. If the State of Tennessee was a State now in revolution and the enemy of the United States, it would seem obvious to every intelligent man that the Convention recently assembled at Baltimore had come to an extraordinary conclusion in selecting a candidate for the second office in the gift of the people who would appear to be, in the opinion of the gentleman from Massachusetts, an enemy and alien to the United States.

Mr. Sumner, of Massachusetts, said he had contended only that all the States were in the rightful jurisdiction of the United States.

Mr. Johnson said he understood that the gentleman had relied upon a former decision of the Supreme Court, which declared in the Senator's behalf these States out of the Union. If that doctrine was true, it was intolerable that any loyal citizen could vote for the candidate of that gentleman's party for Vice-President. He did not mean now to express any opinion on the merits of the Arkansas case, but he would on the Judiciary Committee, before which it would come as a judicial question. But the gentleman had assailed the course of the President by telling us that the Amnesty Proclamation has declared that it is not in the power of the loyal people to come back into the Union without legislative enactment. If this State was not in the Union, what authority had the President, Congress being in session, to appoint judges, and all compensated at the expense of the United States Treasury; and had not the gentleman supported the nominations thus made? Was not his an accepted fact, and a recognition on the President's course on the part of the Senate? He contended that if we attempted to prohibit Slavery as a qualification of restoration of States to the Union, they would not be on an equality with the States as they originally came into it under the Constitution, and he could not but believe that the Union would be lost when it was understood that each State was not the equal of the other to do either right or wrong. He discarded the idea that these States were to return to the United States simply as Territories with all the State powers derived from the Constitution conferred from them. If Mr. Lincoln's election depends on the right of these electors, then God knows what we may come to. It may be assumed that Mr. Lincoln, or any one else, may lack the votes of these States in the condition of Arkansas. God forbid that it should happen that he should be elected by these States that were brought into the Union under his Amnesty Proclamation, as it would be calculated further to excite the blood of the people, especially when the assertion was made by the honorable gentleman here that the very purpose of the President in bringing back these States was with a view to effect the Presidential election. In answer to a question of Mr. Sumner as to what difference there was between the Senator from Maryland and himself, if Arkansas was a State of the Union, and was only prevented from casting her vote by the anomalous condition of things existing there, Mr. Johnson replied, that the difference between the Senator and himself was as wide as the poles. He considered that each man in the rebel States was as much a citizen of the United States, as a citizen of the loyal States, but as they were disloyal, they were not represented in the Electoral College. But if the President see fit to pardon them, and they organize a State Government, they have a right to come in the Union. They had the power under their State constitution to organize their government.

Mr. Richardson, of Illinois, (Dem.,) reviewed the career of Mr. Finnegan, in Arkansas, and quoting from the resolution offered by him in the convention which took Arkansas from the Union, contended that he was not entitled to a seat on this floor, when those who had stood up for the Union when he (Mr. Finnegan) was disloyal as disloyalists and Copperheads.

Mr. Lane, of Kansas, defended the loyalty of Mr. Finnegan, who, he said, only consented to the ordinance of secession to save his life, and had used all means to prevent its adoption.

Mr. Saulsbury, of Delaware, (Dem.,) said he would vote against the reference to the Judiciary Committee, simply because the so-called State of Arkansas was a rotten borough of ABRAHAM LINCOLN.

Mr. WILSON, of Massachusetts, (Union,) said, that notwithstanding the disparage any loyal sentiment in Arkansas, he would vote for the reference of the resolutions and credentials, in order that the subject might have a thorough investigation. At the same time he would say that no man having the taint of disloyalty on his garments should be admitted by his vote to a seat on this floor.

Mr. LASH, of Kansas, insisted that Mr. FESSENDEN, with the exception of the vote to gave for the ordinance of secession, was now as loyal as the Senator from Massachusetts.

After further remarks by Messrs. GRIMES and HOWARD, the resolutions and credentials were referred to the Judiciary Committee by a vote of 32 yeas to 5 nays.

INCREASE OF RAILROAD FACILITIES.

Mr. WILSON, from the Military Committee, to whom was referred various petitions for increased railroad facilities between Philadelphia and New-York, reported the same back adversely, and asked to be discharged from their further consideration. Agreed to.

THE DIPLOMATIC APPROPRIATION BILL.

On motion of Mr. TRUMBULL, the Senate receded from its amendment raising the grade of the Consul to Belgium, and agreed to the bill as it came from the House.

THE MARINE HOSPITAL.

The bill authorizing the Secretary of the Treasury to purchase the Marine Hospital at Chicago, was called up by Mr. TRUMBULL, and passed.

THE ENROLLMENT BILL.

Mr. WILSON presented certain amendments to the Enrollment Bill, which, without reading, were ordered to be printed.

At 5 o'clock the Senate adjourned.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

WASHINGTON, Monday, June 13.

THE CASE OF GEN. SCHENCK.

Mr. DAWES, of Massachusetts, (Union,) from the Committee on Elections, to whom the Message of the President in relation to military appointments was referred, made a report thereon, concluding with the following resolutions:

That Brevet Major-General C. Schenck, having resigned his commission as Major-General of Volunteers on the 21st of December, 1862, to take effect on the 9th of December, was not, by reason of having held such office, disqualified from occupying a seat in the Thirty-eighth Congress as a representative from Ohio, the election having occurred on the 8th day of December; but that BLANN, by continuing to hold office as a Major-General of Volunteers, and discharging the duties thereof, from Nov. 26, 1862, till January, 1864, thus disqualified himself from holding a seat in the Thirty-eighth Congress, which met December 7, 1863.

The report for the present was laid on the table, and ordered to be printed.

THE SOLDIERS' PAY BILL.

On motion of Mr. SCHENCK, of Ohio, (Union,) a Committee of Conference was asked of the Senate on the disagreeing amendments to the bill to increase the pay of soldiers.

THE MILITARY APPROPRIATION BILL.

Mr. STEVENS, of Pennsylvania, (Union,) made a report from the Committee of Conference on the disagreeing amendments to the Military Appropriation Bill.

They were principally in regard to making the pay of negro soldiers the same as that of white soldiers, from the first of January last, so as to include the back pay of the two thousand negro regiments and those first raised in South Carolina and Louisiana.

The report of the Conference Committee concludes as follows:

All persons of color who were free on the 19th of April, 1861, and who have been enlisted and mustered into the military service of the United States, shall, from the time of their enlistment, be entitled to receive the pay, bounty and clothing allowed to such persons by the laws existing at the time of their enlistment, and the Attorney-General is authorized to determine any question of law arising under this provision; and if the Attorney-General shall decide that any such soldier is not entitled to receive any bounty, bounty or clothing in addition to what they have already received, the Secretary of War shall make all necessary regulations to enable the pay departments to make payment in accordance with such determination."

The report was concurred in by yeas, 79; nays, 58.

The Senate has already adopted it.

THE $300 EXEMPTION.

Mr. SCHENCK, of Ohio, (Union,) introduced a bill repealing the three hundred dollar exemption in the Enrollment Act, and providing that hereafter no person shall be enrolled, or be drafted, or received, or volunteer, enrolled or drafted man to be relieved of liability to perform military duty.

Mr. SCHENCK moved the "previous question" on the passage of the bill.

The "previous question" was not seconded, and debate going, the bill went over.

ELECTORAL VOTES FROM STATES IN REBELLION.

Mr. GARFIELD, of Ohio, (Union,) introduced a joint resolution, declaring as follows:

That no State declared to be in rebellion by the President is entitled to appoint Electors of President and Vice President, and no electoral vote from any such State shall be received or counted until both Houses of Congress, by concurrent action, shall have recognized a State Government in such State.

On motion of Mr. BLAIR, of Michigan, the resolution was laid on the table by yeas, 104; nays, 23.

CONCERNING MEMBERS OF CONGRESS.

On motion of Mr. BLAIR, of Michigan, (Union,) a resolution was adopted instructing the Committee on the Contingent Fund of the House to inquire whether there is any good and substantial reason for the exclusion of members of Congress from the hospitals where they desire to look after the condition of the wounded from their respective States; and in case such visits can be made without detriment to the sick and wounded, the committee recommend some regulation by which members can visit the hospitals at reasonable hours without lot or hindrance.

RECONSTRUCTION.

The House then took up the resolution of Mr. LAN-CASTER, of Pennsylvania, (Dem.,) offered on Monday of last week, as a substitute for the resolution of Mr. BLAIR, requiring the President to adopt measures for assembling a convention of delegates from all the States to adjust the difficulties between the North and the South on the basis of the Constitution.

The House refused by a vote of yeas 63, to suspend the rules for the introduction of the resolution.

Mr. RICE, of Massachusetts, (Union,) unsuccessfully sought to introduce a resolution authorizing the Secretary of the Navy to amend the contract with PARSONS, for the construction of the Puritan, so the destroyer may be paid the valuation of the same for the material on hand, &c., and the vessel is never wholly and to be finished by the United States, nor intend to be completed; and the contract for the Dictator, which is to be completed as if this resolution was not passed.

REPEAL OF THE FUGITIVE SLAVE LAW.

The House then proceeded to the consideration of the House Bill to repeal the Fugitive Slave Law.

Mr. KING, of Missouri, (Dem.,) argued that the unconstitutional clauses in relation to Slavery were the result of compromise or a condition to the creation of the Union, and that the repeal now proposed could not be effected without a disregard to imperatives obligations.

Mr. HUBBARD, of Connecticut, (Union,) said no constitutional question properly arises in the consideration of this bill. The acts of 1793 and 1850 were equally obnoxious and infamous, and the best policy requires their repeal. He referred to the memory of the fathers of the Republic, and thought that had Slavery in 1793 been in rebellion they would not have passed the original law. That was argument enough for him.

Mr. COX, of Ohio, (Dem.,) said this bill was brought here under a sort of impulse. He knew slaveholders were in rebellion; but that was no reason why we should violate the Constitution. Recent Massachusetts, Hampshire Gazette, Fremont Arms and other North-ern men voted for the law of 1793, and Governor Wilmot was one and it. The Higher-law men in Massachusetts, Ohio, Wisconsin and other States interpret the law to suit themselves, and rise in sedition and rebellion against it.

Mr. BLAIR, of Maine, (Union,) asked Mr. COX whether he would return to a loyal owner a slave found in the ranks of the Union army?

Mr. COX replied, he would return any slave who had been stolen, and let the slave take the consequence of military law. He was opposed to putting blacks in our army. Gen. GRANT does not fight them.

Mr. BLAIR said more than one hundred and fifty wounded black soldiers were to-day in the hospital.

Mr. COX replied he wanted white men to carry on the war. The Administration and its friends, while refusing to give up black men, found no difficulty in unconstitutionally surrendering a white man claiming the right of asylum, at the request of the South Minister. He moved that the Committee on the Judiciary would report a bill to punish those who give up such refugees in the absence of law or extradition treaty.

Mr. BLAIR, of Wisconsin, (Union,) replied to Mr. COX, as far as the latter's remarks applied to that State. He said the Virginia and Kentucky Resolutions of 1798 had been used by the Democracy to bolster up Slavery, but that the Legislature of Wisconsin had applied them to the cause of human liberty.

Mr. COX said that State did not propose a mode and measure of redress by an amendment to the Constitution, but appealed to force and took up arms.

Mr. BLAIR replied that the gentleman was mistaken as to the facts. The people of Wisconsin are willing to abide a judicial decision.

Mr. BLAIR, of Maine, answered to be read a dispatch from Major Pierce, to show the gentleman from Ohio that negroes will fight.

The dispatch says: "The negroes in the fort at Beaufort Ky., permission having been given them, shelled and recaptured the guns the rebels had taken."

The reading of the dispatch occasioned considerable applause and laughter.

Mr. BLAIR, of New-York, (Union,) said that Alexander, to whom Mr. COX had alluded, was finally of a crime which our laws declare to be piracy. He (Mr. BLAIR) objected to the law because it was a degrading, and so unjust and iniquitous that officers and men could not be found willing to enforce it. He repeated, he would sweep out a law no man respect save those involved in the crime of Slavery.

Mr. FARNSWORTH, of Illinois, (Union,) said the Constitution did not require the passage of the Fugitive Slave Law. He would by repeal present laws to strike all the blows he could at the Institution of Slavery. They were a blot and a cowardly disgrace on the statute book of the nation. The gentleman from Ohio (Cox) would take the Kanawha and market from the colored soldiers, and put upon them instant chains and manacles. He supposed the Arguelles case was to be made a plank in the Democratic platform.

The question being taken, the bill passed, 82 against 58, nayes.

YEAS—Messrs. Alley, Allison, Ames, Ashley, Baldwin of Massachusetts, Baxter, Beaman, Blaine, Blair of Western Virginia, Blow, Boutwell, Boyd, Brandegee, Ambrose W. White, Fernando Wood.

The House Bill as passed, is as follows:

Sec. 1 enacted, &c., That sections 3 and 4 of an act entitled "An Act respecting fugitives from justice and persons escaping from the service of their masters," passed Feb. 12, 1793, and not act entitled "An Act to amend and supplementary to the act entitled 'An Act respecting fugitives from justice and persons escaping from the service of their masters,'" passed Sept. 18, 1850, be and the same hereby repealed.

The House adjourned.

NATIONAL UNION COMMITTEE.

A meeting of the National Union Executive Committee, consisting of Messrs. NEW-YORK, June 12, 1864.

The Atlantic Mutual Marine Insurance Company.

Eight millions of dollars is an amount of wealth that somewhat staggers the understanding; yet that amount was received in premiums in 1863, by the Atlantic Marine—an amount that lacks only $6,000,000 to equal the sum of premiums received by all the fire insurance companies of this City within the same time. The increase in the premiums of this Company in one year was not less than $3,007,954 00. The profits of the Company for the year was $3,630,000, after paying $2,755,000 in losses. By its last report we see that its assets amounted to $9,246,545 62. It made dividends of 40 per cent., besides paying six per cent. on its outstanding certificates. Its accumulated profits from July 1, 1862, to Jan. 1, 1863, were $16,866,630, being its total profits for twenty-one and a-half years of successful business. All its certificates issued before 1862, amounting to $11,000,210, have been redeemed in cash, leaving the Company not earning of $5,856,420. These figures may well astonish older insurance companies, of less growth and less scope of action. Too much praise cannot be bestowed upon the capable management of the Atlantic, which has caused these splendid results.—Commercial Advertiser.

The Continental Monthly Magazine thus speaks of the new novel: "We believe Mr. TROWBRIDGE has achieved a real success in his Cadjo Cave. The plot is well conceived and sustained, and the interest never flags from the first page to the last.

A Deceptive Malady.—So insidious are the first approaches of Consumption, that thousands remain unconscious of its presence, until it has brought them to the verge of the grave. An immediate resort to Dr. JAYNE'S EXPECTORANT, upon the first appearance of Cough, Pain of Soreness of the Throat or Chest, would very generally prevent a fatal result; or, in case these symptoms indicate the presence of blood consumption, would tend to subdue the violence of the disease, and thus materially assist in prolonging the life of the patient. Use the Expectorant, therefore, when you take cold, and it may prove the necessity for its use in more dangerous complaints. All of Dr. D. JAYNE & SON'S Family Medicines are sold by HARRALD, RILEY & TOWNSEND, No. 181 Chambers, and No. 1 Hudson-st., and by Druggists generally.

THE GOVERNMENT LOAN
$200,000,000.

THIS LOAN IS AUTHORIZED by Act of Congress of March 3, 1861, which provides for the REDEMPTION IN COIN, at any period not less than five nor more than twenty years from its date, at the pleasure of the Government.

UNTIL ITS REDEMPTION, five per cent. interest is to be paid semi-annually, IN COIN.

SUBSCRIPTIONS TO THE LOAN are received by the National Banks in United States notes, or in coin, or other funds as are taken by them on deposits or par.

ITS EXEMPTION FROM STATE OR LOCAL TAXATION is equivalent to three per cent. per annum in the value.

THE RATE OF INTEREST, on the face, though but five per cent. in coin, is as much greater in consideration as the difference between the market value of currency and gold.

AS A RULE, the five per cent. specie securities of all solvent Governments are always at par or above, and currently now funded in the National Loan will be worth its face in gold, besides paying a regular and liberal per centage to the holder.

THE AUTHORIZED AMOUNT of this loan is two Hundred Million Dollars. The amount of subscriptions reported to the Treasury at Washington has been $70,000,000.

SUBSCRIPTIONS WILL BE RECEIVED by the Treasurer of the United States at Washington, and the Assistant Treasurers at New-York, Boston and Philadelphia, and by the GATHERINGS IN THE HEAD.

FROM REV. NATHAN HUBBELL.

METHODIST PARSONAGE, HARVARD, DEL. CO., N. Y., May 23, 1864.

J. P. Dinsmore, Esq.—

DEAR SIR: Although an entire stranger to you, I have received so much benefit from your Peruvian Syrup, that I cannot withhold my testimony in its favor.

At different periods in my life I have been afflicted with gatherings in my head, which discharged daily, either from one or both ears.

Besides the disgusting character of the complaint, it was at times attended with excruciating pain. I had recourse to both the Allopathic and Homœopathic treatment, but in vain.

The last attack had troubled me nearly a year, when, at the session of our Annual Conference, held at Newburgh in April last, I saw a certificate from some one who had been cured of a similar complaint by the use of your Peruvian Syrup. To be brief, I purchased a bottle at the nearest drug store, and before it was half gone my trouble had entirely ceased, and at this writing, nearly two months later, has not returned.

I take pleasure in recommending the Syrup to the afflicted members of my Church, and hope it may become still more widely known, and thus dispense life and health to the afflicted.

I am very truly yours,
NATHAN HUBBELL,
Preacher in charge of the Harvard Circuit.

By Ik Marvel. 1 vol. 12mo. $1 75.

The Publisher's Circular for June says:

"If the mantle of Washington Irving has fallen on any living, it is upon Mitchell. The polish, shrewdness, humor, tenderness and loveableness, are the same in both. The present work will please everybody."

New-York Observer says:

"'Ik Marvel' has given us no book of more delightful reading than this. It is full of light, graceful and beautiful touches and sketches, chiefly of foreign life, travel and adventure, now overflowing with humor, and again breathing the tenderest strains and thrilling descriptions."

Boston Saturday Gazette:

"It possesses the delightful characteristics of the dreamer, leading us from basement to attic by the charm which his genius invests everything with."

The New-Haven Register:

"It is as readable and attractive that one is loth to lay it down until he has been through the volume 'from cellar to garret.' We remember no American author, except Washington Irving, whose graceful and polished sentences are so full of refined thought, delicate imagery and lovable description as those of Mr. Mitchell."

PROPOSALS FOR LOAN.

TREASURY DEPARTMENT, June 6, 1864.

To insure the greatest possible vigor in the operations of the armies now moving against the insurgents, under brave and skillful Generals, upon a vast theatre of operations, expenditures have been increased beyond receipts from revenue and ordinary subscriptions to the National Loan.

Sealed offers will therefore be received at this Department, under the act of March 3, 1863, until noon of WEDNESDAY, the 15th day of June, 1864, for Bonds of the United States to the amount of seventy-five millions of dollars, bearing an annual interest of six per centum, payable semi-annually on the 1st day of January and July, and January each year, and redeemable after the 20th of June, 1881.

Each offer must be for fifty or one hundred dollars, or some multiple of one hundred dollars, and must state the sum, including premium, offered for each hundred dollars in bonds, or for fifty, when the offer is for no more than fifty. Two per cent. of the principal, excluding premium, of the whole amount offered must be deposited, as guaranty for payment of subscription if accepted, with the Treasurer of the United States at Washington, or with the Assistant Treasurer at New-York, Boston, Philadelphia, or St. Louis; or with the Designated Depositary at Baltimore, Pittsburgh, Cincinnati, Louisville, Chicago, Detroit, or Buffalo; or with any National Banking Association authorized to receive deposits which may consent to transact the business without charge. Duplicate certificates of deposits will be issued by depositaries by the officers or association receiving them; the originals of which must be forwarded with the offers to the department. All deposits should be made in time for advice of offers with certificates to reach Washington not later than the morning of June 15. No offer not accompanied by its proper certificate of deposit will be considered.

The Coupon and Registered Bonds issued will be of the denominations of $50, $100, $500, and $1,000. Registered Bonds of $5,000 and $10,000 will also be issued if required.

All offers received will be opened on Wednesday, the 15th of June, by the secretary or one of the assistant secretaries, and notice of acceptance or declination will be immediately given to the respective officers; and, in case of acceptance, bonds of the descriptions and denominations preferred will be sent to the subscribers at the cost of the department, on final payment of installments. The original deposit of two per cent. will be reckoned in the last installment paid by successful officers, and will be immediately returned to those whose offers may not be accepted.

The amount of accepted offers must be deposited with the Treasurer or other officer or association authorized to act under this notice on advice of acceptance of offer, or as follows: One-third on or before the 20th; one-third on or before the 25th; and the balance, including the premium and original two per cent. deposit, on or before the 30th of June. Interest to the 1st of July on the greater deposits will be paid in coin on the 30th of June, and interest on bonds will begin July 1, 1864.

Offers under this notice should be indorsed "Offer for Loan," and addressed to the Secretary of the Treasury. The right to decline all offers not considered advantageous is reserved to the Government.

S. P. CHASE, Secretary of the Treasury.

PROSPECTUS
OF THE
COLUMBIA GOLD MINING COMPANY OF COLORADO.
CAPITAL 120,000 SHARES.
NOMINAL PAR $10 EACH.
SUBSCRIPTION PRICE $3 PER SHARE.
STOCK FULL PAID AND NOT LIABLE TO ASSESSMENT. LODES, THE CELEBRATED BOBTAIL, FISK AND other well-known claims, including also a TUNNEL CLAIM of 5,000 consecutive feet, or nearly a mile in length, directly on the Fisk Lode, commencing immediately opposite Black Hawk Point, at Black Hawk City, the whole property embracing 2,700 feet, of which 1,000 feet are developed claims and 1,000 feet opened upon 4,000 feet lateral claims, with a valuable water mill now running and in successful operation. The Bobtail and Fisk Lodes are considered the richest and best in the Territory, having yielded larger amounts of gold than any others in Colorado, which the following assay shows, made by Edward N. Kent, Esq., chemist, United States Assay Office, New-York: Mill value per ton of 2,000 pounds, Bobtail Lode, $744 46; is equal to $6,715 68 per cord; Fisk Lode, $341 21; is equal to $2,729 68 per cord. Beside the above the company own 450 feet of valuable water power, having 21 feet fall on North Clear Creek, half a mile below Black Hawk City. The great advantage possessed by this company is in having a mill now in successful operation, and at present yielding from $1,000 to $1,500 per day, and in a short time the company will have additional improved machinery in full operation, capable of working 40 tons or six cords of ore per day from the BOBTAIL AND FISK LODES, which are yielding from $600 to $1,200 per cord, uniformly assuming from $4,000 to $7,200 per day. The company confidently expect to commence paying their first regular monthly dividend of ONE PER CENT. IN GOLD in October next, which is equal to 24 per cent. per annum, with gold at PAR upon the subscription price of $3 per share. The stock can only be had for a limited PERIOD at the first subscription price, and judging from the constant demand to obtain it, for investment, it must RAPIDLY RISE IN VALUE. The attention of capitalists and others is called to this company, believing that no stock has been offered in the market that possesses more intrinsic MERIT, or is entitled to greater confidence in the community for a profitable, safe and permanent investment. For further information see the prospectus of the company.

Subscription books for only a limited number of shares will be opened at the office of ALBERT R. NICOLAY, Esq., No. 68 William-st., WEDNESDAY, June 15, at 11 o'clock A. M., at the price of $3 per share, $3 to be paid at the time of subscription and the balance ($2) is payable on call, when the certificated of stock are ready to be delivered by the company, or the whole amount can be paid at the time of subscription, at the option of the subscriber to the stock.

PUBLIC NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that it is the intention of the undersigned to form an incorporated company, under and pursuant to the provisions of an Act of the Legislature of the State of New-York, entitled "An Act to provide for the incorporation of Fire Insurance Companies," passed June 2d, 1853, and the several acts amendatory thereof, for the purpose of transacting the business of insurance, that is to say, to make insurance on dwelling-houses, stores and all kinds of buildings, and upon household furniture, and other property, against loss or damage by fire, and the risks of inland navigation and transportation, and that the principal office for the transaction of the business of said company will be located in the City of New-York.

THE KENTUCKY RAID

Cynthiana Captured by the Rebels.

General Hobson With Fifteen Hundred Men Surrenders.

Subsequent Surprise and Rout of the Rebels by Gen. Burbridge.

Morgan's Loss 300 Killed and Wounded and 700 Prisoners.

OUR FORCES IN CLOSE PURSUIT.

FROM CINCINNATI.

CINCINNATI, Sunday, June 12—12:30 P. M.

MORGAN, with about three thousand rebels, attacked the One Hundred and Sixty-eighth and One Hundred and Seventy-first Ohio Regiments, under Gen. HOBSON, at Cynthiana yesterday, and, after a pretty severe fight, compelled HOBSON to surrender, on condition that his men should be immediately exchanged. The fighting took place principally in the streets of Cynthiana, and some of our troops took refuge in the Court-house, and, in order to dislodge them, or while near the hotel was set on fire. About twenty buildings were consumed before the fire was extinguished. Our loss was fifteen killed, fifty wounded.

Col. BENJAMIN, Provost-Marshal of Covington, was mortally wounded.

Col. GANAN, of the One Hundred and Sixty-eighth Ohio, was severely wounded.

It is also reported that Gen. HOBSON was wounded.

Our loss in prisoners is from twelve to fifteen hundred men.

This morning Gen. BURBRIDGE, who left Paris last night, fell upon the rebel MORGAN while his men were at breakfast, and after a very severe fight, completely defeated him, scattering his forces in all directions. About one hundred prisoners were taken, including twenty officers.

Gen. BURBRIDGE, at last advices, was closely following the fleeing rebels.

FROM LOUISVILLE.

LOUISVILLE, Monday, June 13.

Dr. WHEELER, United States Mail Agent, who has been at Frankfort during the siege, left that place at 4:30 this morning, and has arrived here.

He reports that the fight commenced at 6 o'clock on Friday evening, lasting till dark, and at intervals during the night, the enemy approaching from Georgetown in two forces, aggregating 1,200 men, whereof 700 entered Old and 500 New-Frankfort. They had no artillery.

A small 4-pounder had been placed below the fort to protect our rifle-pits, which was captured by the rebels, but subsequently was retaken.

On Saturday firing continued from 7 in the morning until 2 in the afternoon, with short intervals of intermission.

The rebels made two demands during the day for the surrender of the fort, both of which were refused by Col. MOUNTS, of the Twenty-second Kentucky, commanding the fort.

The rebels abandoned the attack at 4 o'clock on Saturday afternoon, and by 7 in the evening were moving eastward.

The Federal loss is six wounded, one seriously.

The rebel loss is unknown.

The fort was garrisoned by 180 Federals, only 12 of whom were soldiers.

No injury was done to Frankfort, except the burning of the barracks on the edge of the city on Friday, which was reported to be a bridge three miles northward.

Capt. DUDROW, of Gen. BURBRIDGE's Staff, telegraphs Gen. EVERE, at Lexington, that BURBRIDGE completely routed MORGAN's command at Cynthiana, Sunday morning.

JACK ALLEN's force, 300 strong, which has been attacking Frankfort, is said to be at Lawrenceburgh.

I have heard the flight of 300 men under Col. GILMER to Versailles, many of whom have thrown away their arms, and will probably unite with JACK ALLEN.

Gen. CARRINGTON has received from Gen. HALLECK a dispatch confirming the disaster to Gen. HOBSON, and the subsequent success of Gen. BURBRIDGE.

Hon. FRANCIS M. BRISTOW, member of the Thirty-sixth Congress, died at Elkton, Ky., on Friday, of heart disease.

LATER.

The Battle Between Burbridge and Morgan—Morgan's Loss Three Hundred Killed and Wounded and Seven Hundred Prisoners—Burbridge in Pursuit.

CINCINNATI, Monday, June 13.

Further reports of the fight yesterday represent the rebel loss to be three hundred killed and wounded and about seven hundred prisoners.

Gen. BURBRIDGE is supposed to be pursuing the remnant of MORGAN's command.

The loss of the Kentucky Central Railroad is estimated at about $200,000.

There were five locomotives and seventy-five cars at Lexington, which are reported uninjured.

MORGAN'S RAID.

His Forces at Mount Sterling and Lexington—Gen. Burbridge Attacks and Defeats Them at Mount Sterling—They are Shelled Out of Lexington—They Retreat Toward Frankfort—Movements of Our Forces.

From the Cincinnati Commercial, June 11.

We are at length enabled to lay before our readers some definite information relative to the movement of guerrillas in Kentucky. And we are happy to say that the latest news is most favorable. The 2,000 horse (leaving numerous parties where Morgan caught his men) which we may have been over-taken by Burbridge's cavalry and roughly handled. It seems that the main body of the raiders occupied Mount Sterling on Wednesday morning last, taking prisoner the door tender left to guard that place. It was from this point, it will be remembered, that the cavalry force of ——— men, under Gen. BURBRIDGE, left for the purpose of entering Virginia. It was intended with this force to destroy the salt works, guard the gaps, and disperse any force that might be collecting in outer Kentucky.

HOW MORGAN REVISED KENTUCKY.

The raiders, it seems, entered the State through Pound Gap, a week ago last Sunday, passing a Union force of five hundred, which was marching on another road toward the salt works at Abingdon. The rebel force is composed of Kentucky troops. The only full regiment is the Fourth Kentucky Cavalry, one thousand strong. There are three battalions of the Tenth Kentucky Cavalry, and three other battalions, the largest of which is the Sixth Confederate Battalion, eighty strong.

Col. MARSHALL of Hardinsburgh, is with MORGAN. Lieut.-Col. ALLEN, a Col. SMITH, of Gallatin, Ill., and other well known rebel lancers. The total rebel force does not exceed 2,000. A large portion of these men dismounted cavalry, who suffered severely in their march into the State, and have been kept in the rear until the cavalry could send back horses to mount them. They are mostly armed with the Confederate Enfield rifle, a short-barreled Enfield made at Richmond. They have no sabres, and no pistols, except as private property.

Their line of March was from Pound Gap to Paintsville, Ky., where a marauding party of 150 men, under the notorious Tom Evereve, was sent in advance to pick up horses and send back to the main force. They passed on to Prestonburg, Grange, Owingsville and Flemingsburgh, and to Maysville. The farms of Union men were stripped of horses, while the property of rebel citizens were scarcely molested. At Flemingsburgh the stables were plundered by Evereve's orders, and not a horse taken. EVEREVE took Maysville without resistance, the Unionists mostly crossing the river. One boat-load was hailed by the rebels, and on their refusal to come back, fired into, killing one man.

EVEREVE gathered up a large number of horses, and took the Lexington pike for Mt. Sterling on Wednesday. He had orders to report at Mt. Sterling within three days from the time he left Hazel Green. EVEREVE's scouting party was the first that left MORGAN's command.

AT MOUNT STERLING.

A quantity of supplies for the subsistence of our troops were stored, and these formed a welcome prize to MORGAN's men. It was here that they were overtaken, on Thursday afternoon last, by Gen. BURBRIDGE, who defeated them and forced them to retreat.

AT LEXINGTON.

Driven from Mount Sterling and closely pursued by our cavalry, the rebel fugitives entered Lexington at about 6 o'clock yesterday morning, and, after burning the depot and plundering several residences, were shelled out of the town by our artillerymen stationed in Fort Clay. The following dispatch, dated Lexington, Friday, 2:30 P. M., reached Gen. HOBSON at Covington, yesterday afternoon, having been sent by the way of Lexington:

To Brig.-Gen. Hobson:

Gen. BURBRIDGE whipped MORGAN handsomely at Mount Sterling yesterday morning. MORGAN was here from 3 to 7 this morning. Our small force skirmished with him last night, and shelled him this morning from the fort. Gen. BURBRIDGE's command is now arriving, and will pursue to-day. Believe rebels have gone to Frankfort.

J. BATES DICKSON, Captain and A. A. G.

A dispatch was also received yesterday by the Superintendent of the Covington and Lexington Road, from Frankfort, stating that the depot had been burned, and that the rebels had been shelled out of the town. The news as to the Mount Sterling and Lexington affairs is perfectly reliable. It is evident that MORGAN is hard pushed, and that with exhausted horses and riders he is but repeating his experience of last July. We will doubtless have further particulars of the pursuit to-day.

AFFAIRS ALONG THE RAILROAD.

As before stated by us, the thieving bands of cutthroats who arose in every county to cooperate with MORGAN, have worked not a little mischief throughout the country—destroying property, stealing horses and burning bridges. These have cut the Covington and Lexington Road in three different places, viz., by burning Keller's Bridge, one mile this side of Cynthiana, (sixty-five miles south of this point,) Kimbrough's Bridge, one mile south of Cynthiana, and the Towasene Bridge and trestle, an important point on the railroad, seven miles south of Cynthiana. The telegraph wires also were cut at Keller's Bridge, rendering it impossible to send a message further south than Boyd's Station. Men were sent along the road, however, on yesterday to repair the wire, and by noon to-day telegraphic communication will be re-established with Lexington. It will require two or three weeks to place the road in order to run trains through. The distance from this point to Cynthiana is sixty-five miles, and to Lexington ninety-nine. At Lexington there were five engines and nearly one hundred cars. It is supposed that these are safe, however.

On the Louisville and Frankfort Road a train of cars were captured and burned by the rebels night before last. When about half a mile south of Smithfield the train was thrown violently from the track by the previous removal of several rails. A volley of carbine and pistol shots was discharged into the cars at the same time. A number of passengers were aboard, and, in all, about twenty soldiers, but six of whom were armed. These other were straggling be-ling returned to their regiments. The armed men had several prisoners under guard—among the lot JOSEPH BURNETT, CALVIN MCDANIEL and DANIEL EASTON, who were convicted at the last term of the Metcalf County Criminal Court, and sentenced to the State Penitentiary for four years each.

They were being transferred to Frankfort to have the sentences carried into effect. So sudden and unexpected was the attack on the train, that everybody lost control of themselves, and, in a perfect state of alarm, surrendered without the slightest show of resistance. The guerrilla band numbered ten men, and they claimed to be soldiers of Gen. JOHN MORGAN's command. They were armed with revolvers and carbines, and aside from their citizen dress, presented the appearance of soldiers. Immediately after the surrender, the arms were taken from the Federal soldiers and broken to pieces. The chief then administered to them an oath, requiring them to support the Southern Confederacy, or, at least, not to make war upon it.

A messenger of the Adams Express Company, who was on the train, was robbed of a sum of money—over $1,000 we believe.

MOVEMENTS OF OUR TROOPS.

While Gen. BURBRIDGE is in pursuit of MORGAN, Gen. HOBSON is doing all that can be done to suppress the guerrillas, of whose depredations along the Covington and Lexington road we have made mention, and to cooperate with the former in the pursuit. A force of nearly ——— men was sent down the road to Cynthiana day before yesterday to guard important points. The cavalry of this force may be found serviceable in the pursuit of MORGAN's main force. At a late hour last night two trains left Covington for Cynthiana, conveying ——— cavalry and ——— infantry, collected together by Gen. HOBSON, who went with them. They will immediately be used to scour the country in the pursuit.

THE FORCES HERE

are now under the command of Col. ENTARS, who, with a sufficient force, has the fortifications in condition to resist attack. There is but little danger, however, of there being any necessity to use the heavy guns there mounted, despite the assertions made yesterday by certain desperately frightened individuals, who were fully impressed with the idea that MORGAN's entire force was within fifteen miles of the city. There might have been a small squad prosecuting their marauding work, and that was all, certainly.

Another Train Captured on the Frankfort Railroad—J. P. Sparks Killed by Guerrillas.

From the Louisville Democrat, June 10.

At 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon the regular passenger train left Lexington at the usual hour on its return trip to Louisville, since which time to the present hour (midnight) we have no word of it. Some time later in the afternoon Mr. GILL, Superintendent of the road, received a dispatch from Eminence, stating that a freight train loaded with ordnance stores, and supposed to have the state archives, was captured at Pleasureville. It is not stated what number of guerrillas seized the train. Citizens were also seized and retained, so that our information is not as full in particulars as we could desire. Whether they burned the ordnance supplies, or would endeavor to secure them and carry them away, has not transpired.

Pleasureville, Kentucky, is the home of J. PEARCE SPARKS, the representative of Henry county in the Legislature. When the guerrillas made the attack upon the train, Mr. SPARKS is reported to have fired upon them from his residence until his charges were exhausted, when he attempted to make his escape, and was shot and killed. He was a brave and honest man, and his death will be regretted by many friends and acquaintances throughout the State.

The passenger train from Lexington, as stated left on regular time on her downward trip, but as the wires were cut at Pleasureville, four miles beyond Eminence, nothing later has been heard of it. Most probably it is at Frankfort safe enough, if Frankfort itself is safe.

It is rumored that Gov. BRAMLETTE was probably on board the captured train, but this is hardly probable. If he intended to come to the city, he would most likely come in the passenger train, and not on the freight, with the ordnance and archives, which were doubtless under the protection of a guard, who, we suppose, were overpowered by a superior force.

A train armed with soldiers has started for the scene of the disaster. We trust we shall be able to obtain further particulars before going to press.

P. S.—Up to 2½ o'clock this morning nothing further was heard from Pleasureville.

The train that went out at 4:30 yesterday afternoon stopped at Lagrange.

The train that left the depot last night conveying soldiers had not been heard from up to the hour of going to press.

The Navy and Expanded Steam: PERFORMANCE OF MR. FOXES' STEAMSHIP FOK KIEN.

NEW-YORK, Monday, June 13, 1864.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

Do me the favor to publish the annexed letter, just received. It relates to Mr. FOXES' steamship Fok Kien, which left here eighteen months ago. It appears that this ship, of 2,000 tons, in running faster than the East River steamboats go on the Sound to Hell Gate, on about forty per cent. of the coal they use, expending steam five times.

I desire this letter published, because of the public instruction it gives on this important subject, although it suggests a rather disagreeable contrast with our unfortunate navy, built on the theory that there is no benefit in expanding steam. I also desire to publish it for the information of those who have ridiculed this ship, because (in the expressive language of the chief engineer of one of our principal steamship companies,) she heard get no letters, and of those who have boasted themselves in informing steamship owners that "she was all broke to smash."

I am aware that this engine is exhibiting a most profound contempt for the Navy Department of the United States by thus using expanded steam, and producing a horse power with about half the coal which they have fixed as the least possible quantity in their printed book; but as an excuse for the machine, I am able to state that the first volume of Experimental Researches, issued by permission of the department, has not been translated into Chinese, and the engine is therefore ignorant that the laws of expansion are repealed for American steam machinery.

What a shame it is that while our men-of-war steamers are driving the English vessels out of the Chinese waters, and compelling Englishmen to come here to build ships, as they now are doing, the American Navy is the ridicule of the world, and is unable to catch the moanest of the English blockade-runners, which duty it with safety, and supply the rebels with the very sinews of war, without which they must have failed long ago. Will not Mr. LINCOLN listen?

STEAMSHIP FOK KIEN, Saturday, April 9, 1864.

EDWARD N. DICKERSON, Esq.—Dear Sir: I again take the liberty of addressing you a few lines relative to the performance of the Fok Kien. We have been, as you are probably aware, on the dry dock at Whampoa, and left it for Hong Kong on Wednesday last, in company with Messrs. HEARD & Co.'s steamboat Kin Shan. The people on board of the Kin Shan were aware of our intention of testing their speed, but had no idea of our beating them. On leaving Whampoa, we allowed the Kin Shan to start ten minutes ahead of us—or say three miles. We overtook and passed her in just one hour and twenty minutes. By the time we had gone one-half of the distance from Whampoa to Hong Kong, we had run ahead of her about three miles. We then dragged in a mud-bank for about ten minutes, (ship not going more than nine knots,) and the Kin Shan came up to within one and a half miles of us. However, we beat her into Hong Kong about six miles. The distance from Whampoa to Hong Kong is, as near as I can find out, from 82 to 85 miles. The Fok Kien ran it in four hours and forty-five minutes, which would give us an average speed of seventeen and a half miles per hour, not allowing anything for detention on mud flat. We carried from twenty-six to thirty pounds of steam cutting off at two feet six inches, and made as high as twenty-four revolutions per minute, (this is above five expansions) burning one and three-quarter tons of coal an hour.

Our cut-off works beautifully. There has been but one-half of one day's work put on it since we left New-York, and that was to face off the die, the steel plates having worn away a little.

Hoping that these few facts may prove acceptable to you, I remain, truly yours,

SAMUEL HAWXHURST,
Chief Engineer Fok Kien.

As the Engineer-in-Chief of the Navy is now levying another tax upon the contractors, through Mr. JNO. BAIRD, who is collecting it in advance, to publish another volume of "Researches," to prove that there is no benefit in expansion, I commend the above facts to his consideration; and I hope he will explain to the young men in the navy who have to buy his books for $10 apiece, and whom he is thus educating in ignorance, how it comes to pass that this ship uses only two and a quarter pounds of coal an hour a horse power, with expansion, while the Lackawanna and her class use eight pounds without it. Yours, &c.,

EDW. N. DICKERSON.

Only Twelve Left.

It will be remembered that in March last the Committee on Revolutionary Pensions reported to Congress a resolution, which was unanimously adopted, tendering thanks to the surviving soldiers of the Revolution, twelve in number, for their services in that war by which our independence was achieved and our liberty obtained, and sincerely rejoicing that their lives have been protracted beyond the period usually allotted to man; and that they receive a sum of money as pensioners, which shall help to smooth the rugged path of life on their journey to the tomb; and that copies of the resolutions be sent by the Speaker to each Revolutionary pensioner. The following are the names, birthplaces and ages, so far as known, of the "Twelve Apostles of Liberty":

Ratification Meetings.

FIFTH WARD UNION ASSOCIATION.—At a meeting of the Fifth Ward Union Association held last evening, the following resolution was adopted:

Resolved, That this association heartily indorse the action of the National Union Convention, which met at Baltimore on the 7th inst. 1. Because the platform adopted is broad and comprehensive, and expresses the true sentiments of the loyal men throughout the country. 2. Because in the renomination of ABRAHAM LINCOLN for the Presidency, it evidenced a determination to keep at the helm of the ship of State a man whose past official acts are a sure guarantee of his doing all that the best interests of the country demand. 3. Because in nominating ANDREW JOHNSON for the Vice-Presidency, it selected a man of energy, capability and honesty, while at the same time it paid a deserved compliment and tribute to the loyalists of the Border States.

SEVENTEENTH WARD.

At a large and enthusiastic meeting of the Seventeenth Ward Lincoln and Johnson Campaign Club, held at Lincoln Hall on Monday evening, June 13, 1864, Supervisor THOMAS LEWIS offered the following resolutions, which were enthusiastically adopted:

Resolved, That the nomination of LINCOLN and JOHNSON, for President and Vice-President, meet with our hearty and earnest approval, and that we will use all honorable means to secure their election.

Resolved, That we do indorse as our political creed the platform adopted by the late Baltimore Convention, and as Union men exert ourselves to disseminate the principles laid down, so that success may crown our efforts at the ballot-box, and thereby insure success to the noble patriots that are fighting the battles of the Union in the field.

Trotting at the Union Course, Long Island. SUMMARY.

SATURDAY, June 11.—Match, $600, mile heats best three in five.

H. Woodruff named br. m. Sally Comeless (in wagon)	2	1	1	1
D. Piffer named b. m. Irish Maid (in harness)	1	2	2	2

Time—2:41; 2:46; 2:46; 2:45.

A good and closely contested trot. Sally, the favorite at start, but after the first heat the Maid had the call. After second heat, two to one was freely laid on Sally.

THE GREAT TROT TO-MORROW.

The greatest trot of this season, and probably the most keenly contested one that has taken place for a very lengthened period, will come off at the Fashion Course to-morrow, when three of the fastest horses now public on the American Trotting Turf will contest the mile and repeat of the Fashion Course Association, with an inside stake of $250 each, mile heats, best three in five, in harness. The excitement in trotting circles, which was manifested on the entry of these celebrities for this purse (and the use to wagons which follows on the following Wednesday) has, like a ball of snow, gone on increasing, until it promises to culminate in the most intensely exciting struggle that has ever been witnessed on the Fashion Course. The Robert Pillingham party are so confident of success that they regard the result as a foregone conclusion. The partisans of General Butler exhibit the same confidence in him, and roundly assert that his being beaten is an impossibility; whilst the John Morgan party—(that fine, game and magnificent specimen of a trotter,)—quietly smile, and back their opinion with their money. More money, perhaps, is depended on this trot than has been laid out on any one event for years; and if the day is only fair, there will be more people present than have been seen on any race track on Long Island since the great race between Fashion and Pocahontas.

One thing is certain, viz., that all three will start, and that they are so evenly balanced in public opinion that no one professes to be able to name the winner, although at this present writing Robert Pillingham has a slight call of the others in the betting. The most ample arrangements have been made by the managers of the course for the comfort and accommodation of the expected crowd of visitors. A large police force will be in attendance. For the arrangements of the special trains, we refer our readers to the advertisement.

Grand Cricket Match.

NEW-YORK VS. NEWARK.

The first grand match of the season was commenced on the new ground of the New-York Club at Bedford, L. I., between the First Eleven of that club and the First Eleven of the Union Club of Newark. A fine display of the game was exhibited by both sides, and was witnessed by a larger assemblage of visitors than has been present on our cricket field for years past. The ground, which is a picturesque retreat, was in good order. To-day the game will be resumed and played out. The following is the score of yesterday's play:

NEW-YORK—FIRST INNINGS.

	Runs.
Higham, c. Marshall, b. Walters	19
Hudson, b. Hallis	9

Total	88

UMPIRES—Messrs. J. Hall and Wm. Gamble.

In the second inning, Messrs. Sharp's 57, Higham's 26, Hammond's 14, and Seeley's 7, with byes and wides, amounted to 88, for the loss of these four wickets. Game called to-day at 11:30 o'clock A. M.

Communications from the Mayor.

MAYOR'S OFFICE, New-York, June 13, 1864.

To the Honorable the Common Council:

GENTLEMEN: A resolution of your Honorable Body, providing for the opening of a number of streets in the upper part of the Island, and directing the Counsel to the Corporation to take the necessary measures to carry such intention into effect, is returned herewith without my approval.

In cases of this character I would respectfully recommend that a separate resolution should be adopted for each street contemplated to be opened. There may be reasons why some streets should be opened, and equally valid objections to others.

I have received so many remonstrances from owners of property on streets embraced in the present resolution stating the inconvenience and needless expense attending the opening that I feel constrained to withhold my signature. In my opinion the interests of unprodductive property in the upper section of the City should be carefully regarded, and the present period of general embarrassment calls for additional caution in burdening them with any expense which can be avoided. I am convinced that the opening of very many of the streets mentioned in the resolution is unnecessary at this time, and would be extremely onerous to the property-owners affected thereby. C. GODFREY GUNTHER, Mayor.

MAYOR'S OFFICE, New-York, June 17, 1864.

To the Honorable the Common Council:

GENTLEMEN: The resolution directing the Street Commissioner to furnish each of the Police Justices of this City with a suitable badge, baton and stave of office, does not meet my approval.

My objections are similar to those I urged in reference to a resolution to furnish badges to the members of the Common Council. It is a needless expenditure of money. Heretofore the Police Magistrates have performed their duties satisfactorily, without these badges. They certainly do not require any insignia while sitting in court, and there is no more necessity for badges to be supplied them than to the Civil Justices or the Judges of the Common Pleas or Supreme Court. Economy forbids the wasting of the public money in procuring gold badges similar to those worn by the members of the Common Council.

The resolution is beside defective, in not stating the cost of procuring these badges, and other official ornaments, nor making an appropriation therefor.

C. GODFREY GUNTHER, Mayor.

Grand Festival in Aid of the Freedmen and the Southern Loyal Refugees.

The great Strawberry, Ice Cream and Floral Festival in Aid of the Freedmen and the Southern Loyal Refugees commenced yesterday afternoon at the City Assembly Rooms, No. 446 Broadway. The large room was very beautifully decorated; from the balconies were suspended banners bearing the portraits of Gens. GRANT, THOMAS, ROUSEAU, BUTLER and MCPHERSON. In the centre of the room was placed a large table, filled with bouquets and baskets of the most rare and exquisite flowers, the grateful perfume of which filled the entire room. About the sides of the room a large number of small tables were neatly arranged, which were surrounded with merry couples, about whom flitted numbers of little fairies, who kept the hungry mortals well supplied with the most delicious cream, the freshest strawberries and the best cake imaginable. At the flower table and about the room many couples were promenading, and the whole affair was enlivened by some excellent selections from the various operas performed by DODWORTH's celebrated band. Mrs. WOLSTAFF G. BERKLINE, the directress of the festival, and Rev. G. C. LEIGH, are entitled to great credit for the truly admirable manner in which all the arrangements have been made.

The object of the festival, to aid the suffering white refugees, should recommend it to every patriotic man and woman in the City, and as long as it is kept open the festival will doubtless be well attended, for, independent of the great good it is to do to a suffering and deserving class of people, it is, with the combined fascinations of music, dancing, and strawberries, and the taste served up by very pretty and patriotic young ladies, so attractive as to be irresistible to the gallant young men of the present day, and they, of course, will not dream of attending it without taking their lady friends with them.

The festival will continue to-day and to-morrow, from 3 to 10 o'clock P. M.

Convention of Sportsmen.

The Sixth Annual Convention of the Sportsmen's Clubs of the State of New-York was held last evening at the rooms of the Sportsmen's Club, No. 10 East Fourteenth-street, Mr. CHARLES H. HASWELL presiding. After some preliminary proceedings, a committee was appointed to examine and report on new inventions submitted to the Club. The next business was the selection of judges, which resulted as follows: Of fly throwing and bass line, W. C. Barrett and C. E. Whitehead; pistol shooting, J. W. Green; rifle shooting, Geo. O. Holmes; all vacancies to be filled on the ground. Pigeon-shooting was mentioned, but the names of the judges were not given. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President O. R. GERARD, of Niagara Falls; Vice-Presidents, SOLOMON SCHULER and JOHN L. SWEETZER; Secretary, CHAS. E. WARNER; and Treasurer, FRANK SUTHAY. A resolution was passed to hold the next annual meeting at Niagara Falls on the first Tuesday in June, 1865, after which the meeting adjourned to meet again this evening at 8 o'clock.

Mutiny on Shipboard.

A mutiny occurred on board the ship Emily Augusta, Capt. STRICKLAND, while proceeding to sea yesterday afternoon, bound to St. John, N. B. While going down the bay, and when abreast of the Narrows, Capt. STRICKLAND went forward to get the men to go to work, when they told him to go aft again, and immediately rushed upon him, one of them stabbing him in the back with a sheath-knife. They also attached the mate, knocked him down on deck and kicked him, and made a pass with a knife at him, but did not cut him. The ship was immediately turned back and anchored off Quarantine, and a boat's crew from the revenue cutter Crawford, boarded her and put the crew in irons. The United States Marshal was notified, who sent the Harbor Police boat down to her and had them all brought to the City and locked up in the Tombs. Capt. STRICKLAND, who is dangerously wounded, was brought to the City.

GENERAL CITY NEWS.

REV. SELLA MARTIN AT COOPER INSTITUTE.—Quite a large audience assembled last evening at the Cooper Institute, to listen to an address from Rev. SELLA MARTIN, who was but a few years since a slave in Georgia, on the state of public opinion in England with regard to the American war. The meeting was opened by PETER COOPER Esq., who then introduced Rev. Dr. MCCLINTOCK. After a brief prayer, the reverend gentleman read a resolution of the London Emancipation Society laudatory of Mr. SELLA MARTIN, and made a short address, at the conclusion of which he introduced the lecturer to the evening to the audience. After the hearty applause which greeted his appearance had subsided, Mr. MARTIN proceeded to give a very clear and interesting summary of his observations on the feeling of the English toward America, and the reasons which induced a majority of the aristocratic and commercial classes to sympathize with the South, while the laboring classes are all but unanimous in favor of the North. Mr. MARTIN concluded his address, which was listened to with great attention, by giving a brief account of his own life, and an eloquent appeal for sympathy and aid for the suffering, struggling people of his own race.

A DAY IN TARTARUS.

How away yo nauseous odors!
How away yo teeth of blackness!
How away yo gums so yellow!
I'm relieved from living death!
Oh! what sparkling ivory whitenest!
Oh! what healthy rosiest beauty!
Oh! what delicate undying
Eden perfume is my breath!
Thanks to thee, thou noble artist!
Who, from Nature's great alembic,
Drew the sweet long-looked-for secret!
Won so glorious a wreath!
I will fight beneath thy banner,
"SOZODONT" upon it gleaming,
In large letters, golden, lustrous—
Fight because I'm not afraid to Show "a world in arms" my Teeth!!!

Sold by all Druggists and Perfumists, and by HALL & RUCKEL, Proprietors, No. 218 Greenwich-st., New-York. 75 cents a bottle.

AN IRRESISTIBLE ATTRACTION.—The new Summer style of hats introduced by that celebrated manufacturer, KNOX, seems to possess a powerful attractive force; and when exhibited in the window of the store at the corner of Fulton-street and Broadway, draws crowds of purchasers. It is singularly neat and elegant; is of a beautiful fabric, and in every respect defies competition. KNOX is bound to keep the lead in this business.
